Rogers Confirms Plan to End War

Nixon Spokesman Won't Divulge Details of What Could be 'Fair' Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers declared today that "we certainly hope there will be some chance of a mutual withdrawal of troops" from Vietnam this year.

Rogers told a news conference that he plans to pay a visit of three or four days to South Vietnam following a foreign ministers meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization at Bangkok, Thailand, in May.

The Nixon administration, Rogers said in response to a direct question, does "have a plan which we think is fair and reasonable for ending this conflict" in Vietnam.

Hope for Peace

"We're going to proceed in every possible way to apply it," he declared. "We have every hope it will bring peace."

He flatly refused—as he and other administration officials have done in the past—to give any details of the plan or to say whether there has in fact been any progress in secret contacts with Communist negotiators in Paris or elsewhere.

On the key question of troop withdrawal, Rogers told the newsmen and women who crowded his first news conference as secretary of state:

"I certainly hope there will be some chance of a mutual withdrawal of troops this year. But if it's to be mutual you have to have mutuality.

Unilateral Withdrawal

"As to a unilateral withdrawal of troops (a U.S. withdrawal without parallel Communist action), I won't go beyond what the President has said. We are considering all possibilities. I won't predict what might be done."

Soviet Missiles

On other subjects, Rogers said:

—He has difficulty in understanding why the Soviet Union is deploying a massive nuclear missile—the SS9—which carries a 25-megaton warhead. This is "one of the first questions we intend to take up with them when we have the U.S.-Soviet talks on strategic arms limitation," he said.

—The United States is actively preparing for the strategic arms limitation talks—the aim of which would be to limit nuclear weapons—and "we expect they will begin in late spring or early summer."

—The Nixon administration is "willing to do what we can to have more friendly relations with Red China." Rogers said this after commenting that the United States does not consider it wise to attempt to exploit differences between Red China and Russia; the U.S. would like more friendly relations with both.

Very Difficult

—The United States has expressed its concern to the Soviet Union about its actions in Czechoslovakia. Rogers said that when the Soviets have 60,000 to 70,000 troops, and tanks, in Czechoslovakia it makes East-West relations very difficult and in fact "the whole Brezhnev doctrine is very disconcerting." His reference was to Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet Communist Party chief, who has argued Russia has a right to intervene to suppress change in any Communist country.

Nixon Takes Time Out to Toss First Ball

President Opens Baseball Season, Hunts Easter Eggs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon took time out today from the weighty problems of his office for a little fun and games—rolling Easter eggs and watching some baseball.

The President, just back from a Florida weekend, set aside time in the morning to join in the traditional Easter egg roll on the White House lawn. Following this was a trip to the Robert F. Kennedy Stadium to throw on the first ball marking the opening of the 1969 major league baseball season.

In attending the game between the Washington Senators and the New York Yankees, Nixon was following a tradition started in the early part of the century by President William Taft.

Domestic Legislation

The day wasn't devoted entirely to such light-hearted affairs. Nixon had called a morning meeting of his Urban Affairs Council to push ahead with plans for his own program of domestic legislation.

While spending five days at his waterfront home at Key Biscayne, Fla., Nixon bore down on paperwork in the domestic area and held one formal conference review of home front policies.

The chief executive's final bit of official business before returning to the capital Sunday night, however, involved touchy relations with Peru.

John H. Irwin II, Nixon's special envoy to Peru, stopped by for an hour-long meeting en route back to Lima. Irwin is seeking a solution to the dispute over compensation by Peru for seizing the American-owned International Petroleum Co.

Cut off Aid

If no solution is forthcoming, Nixon could be forced to cut off American aid to Peru and eliminate the annual quota permitting sugar imports from that country.

The rest of the week's presidential calendar has an international flavor.

Tuesday and Wednesday he will be host to King Hussein of Jordan, who is paying an official visit to the United States. The explosive Arab-Israeli situation will, no doubt, be a major topic of talks between the two.

Thursday the President will speak at a ministerial meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The alliance is celebrating the 20th anniversary of its founding.

President Prodded

Congress Waits for Nixon's Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., prodded the Nixon administration today to speed up its recommendations to Congress.

Emphasizing that he meant no criticism of Nixon, McCormack said in a statement that Congress and the new President "can best act by the executive expediting messages and reports as quickly as possible."

Without mentioning criticism of Congress for having done little during its first three months in session, McCormack said that to date the legislative branch "has made fine progress."

"As a practical matter," he said, "it is exceedingly difficult for the leadership in Congress to formulate a legislative program and timetable . . . until it has before it those recommendations which the President has to submit to the Congress."

McCormack's prod came on the heels of a weekend statement by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills that his House Ways and Means Committee will start writing tax reform legislation before the end of the month even if Nixon hasn't submitted his own proposals.

Mills, D-Ark., is chairman of the committee, which handles all tax legislation.

Nixon reportedly has told leaders of both the House and Senate that he hopes to present his budget recommendations and some other major legislative proposals soon after Congress returns from its current Easter vacation a week from today.

Closer Coordination

McCormack said he made his observations "in the spirit of having close coordination between the Congress and President Nixon."

During the first three months of the new Congress that convened in 1965, he said, President Johnson sent a total of 5 messages to Capitol Hill before the Easter recess and they covered major subjects requiring legislation.

During the first three months of the new Congress in 1967, he added, Johnson sent 23 messages dealing with major legislation.

Eleven messages have been sent to Congress by President Nixon since he took office on Jan. 20, McCormack noted, and only eight of them included legislative recommendations.

Biafrans Flee Last Big Town

Federalist Offensive Aimed at Umuahia, Sessionist Center

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Biafrans are fleeing Umuahia to escape a federal offensive aimed at the secessionist headquarters and last major town, the Nigerian command said today.

A high military spokesman said the information came from Col. Mohamed Shuwa, commander of the 1st Division that the Nigerians claim has overrun Ozu Okoli, a railway town eight miles north of Umuahia. The secessionist capital is only a mile out of range of the 105mm howitzers used by the Nigerians, the spokesman said.

Before the outbreak of the civil war 21 months ago Umuahia had a population of about 29,000, but this has been swelled by thousands of refugees from Biafran areas seized by federal soldiers.

New Headquarters

Lt. Col. Abdul Wya, the Nigerian field commander, said the Biafrans were preparing to abandon Umuahia and were setting up a new headquarters at Nkwerre, 30 miles away.

The Nigerians have prevented newsmen and international observers from entering the fighting area north of Umuahia, and there has been no confirmation of the Nigerian advance. Biafran radio has reported big counter-attacks by secessionist troops halted the Nigerian push.

The Nigerian spokesman said the federal troops would be careful about opening an escape route for refugees from Umuahia for fear the Biafrans would infiltrate troops disguised as civilians behind their lines. The Nigerians claim a similar tactic permitted the Biafrans to cut off a brigade of about 1,500 men still isolated at Owerri, 40 miles west of Umuahia.

Returned to Bush

Nigerian army sources said at least 1,500 townspeople have returned from the bush to the village of Ake Eze, 20 miles north of Ozu Okoli. The Biafrans claimed they recaptured Ozu Okoli Saturday after the federals overran it March 30 in their offensive from the north.

There has been no indication the 1st Division offensive will be joined by two other Nigerian divisions encircling Biafra. Both have problems of their own.

The 3rd Division was reported still trying to free its encircled troops at Owerri, and the 2nd Division is still trying to hold the Niger River town of Onitsha, that took more than one year ago. Nigeria's Soviet-built air force also has been inactive during the offensive, which was reported to have started the day British Prime Minister Harold Wilson arrived in Lagos for a four-day visit last week.

Antiwar Protests Held Across Nation During Easter Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tens of thousands of persons joined Easter weekend protests against the Vietnam war.

More than 50,000 gathered in New York's Central Park Saturday in an orderly protest that set the tone for parades and rallies in other cities. The protests were organized by the National Action Coalition, made up of 12 antiwar groups.

The only violent incident came Sunday in San Francisco, where a peaceful parade of 10,000 to the Presidio army installation ended in a clash that injured 13 military policemen.

Seven MPs were treated for eye injuries after being sprayed with an unidentified liquid. Three others suffered chemical skin burns and three more were cut by thrown bottles. Police held three demonstrators.

The parade, which included some out-of-uniformed servicemen moved from the Civic Center to the Presidio without incident.

The clash began when several demonstrators tried to push onto the base. MPs who resisted them were bombarded with stones and bottles.

Several West Coast military bases scheduled extra duty over the weekend during the hours of the demonstrations.

More than 10,000 persons marched through Chicago Saturday in a peaceful protest. Strong winds blew away their signs and there was scattered heckling.

About 3,500 people gathered in Los Angeles Sunday for an antiwar rally. A brief scuffle between two antiwar groups ended with 12 fist-fighters falling into the lake at Lafayette Park. Police booked five persons on charges of suspicion of disturbing the peace.

New York Rally

The massive New York rally followed a parade up Sixth Avenue by about 40,000 persons. Six persons were arrested in two incidents, and police and bystanders were splattered with yellow paint hurled from a skyscraper, apparently at paraders.

About 150 off-duty servicemen led the parade, organizers said. They wore white hats labelled "GIs for Peace." Some of them burned what appeared to be military identification papers during the park rally.

Many marchers, in New York and elsewhere, wore black armbands that said, "33,000." The figure indicated the toll of GIs killed in Vietnam, which passed the Korean War total last week.

In Gainesville, Fla., about 200 persons marched to the federal building and built a small brick and mortar "humble memorial" there. It contained 33 bricks, one for each Alachua County man killed in Vietnam.

In Florida

In West Palm Beach, Fla., about 50 persons marched through the downtown area with a 65-foot streamer made up of 124 pages of the Congressional Record, listing all Vietnam war fatalities. About 110 people marched in Miami.

A few persons demonstrated briefly Saturday against the draft and the proposed antiballistic missile system near President Nixon's Key Biscayne retreat. A White House spokesman said the President hadn't seen the protest.

In Washington, about 100 demonstrators staged a "Vietnam Passion Play for Easter" in front of the White House Sunday. Four protesters draped themselves over a large, wooden cross during the performance.

Canadian Marches

About 2,000 persons marched in Vancouver, B.C., and a Sunday parade through downtown Montreal drew 300 participants. About 150 protesters rallied in Ottawa to demand an end to Canadian "complicity" in the war.

In Atlanta, Ga., about 2,500 marchers, led by the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, combined their war protest with homage to the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The group, which included two of King's children, carried signs, "Want to Hear a Good Joke? The Paris Peace Talks."

'Good Strong Beat'

First Mechanical Heart Replaced by Real One

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Haskell Karp received the heart of a Massachusetts woman today after having been kept alive 65 hours by the world's first completely mechanical heart.

The donor of the 19th heart transplant to be performed by the team headed by Dr. Denton A. Cooley was Mrs. Barbara Ewan, 40, of Lawrence, Mass., who had been flown to Houston in the early morning hours after suffering irreversible brain damage.

The flight was arranged after Mrs. Ewan's family responded to a tearful plea by Mrs. Shirley Karp that "someone, somewhere" would answer her husband's need for a human heart.

Today's transplant was completed in two hours.

Single Shock

Karp's new heart began beating after only one electrical shock.

"This indicates a good, strong heart function and Mr. Karp is in satisfactory condition at the moment," a St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital spokesman said.

Cooley had implanted the eight ounce plastic and fabric heart in Karp's chest Friday afternoon in "an act of desperation," after efforts to repair a severely damaged heart chamber had failed.

The experimental device was designed to keep a patient alive only until a donor heart could be obtained and Cooley had indicated he hoped a transplant could be arranged as quickly as possible.

Daughter's Request

Mrs. Ewan was transferred to Houston at the request of one of her three daughters, Carol Burns of Lawrence, who accompanied her mother to Houston.

R. Ashton Smith, director of the Lawrence hospital, said in a statement that "Mrs. Ewan was alive when transferred, and her heart was functioning well according to reports from the team of physicians who attended her at Lawrence General Hospital."

Mrs. Burns asked that her mother be transferred in response to Mrs. Karp's plea for a donor.

Reports by Commanders

Restraints Prevented Victory in Vietnam

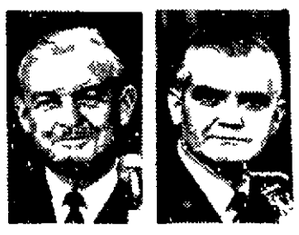
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former U.S. commanders in the Vietnam war say American escalation of the fighting was essential in preventing the fall of South Vietnam, but White House restraints ruled out a traditional military victory.

In their 347-page "Report on the War in Vietnam," published today by the Pentagon, Gen. William C. Westmoreland and Adm. U.S.G. Sharp said their strategy in building up the American effort from 1964 until last year was generally successful and ended any chance of an enemy victory.

Westmoreland, who ran the U.S. war effort in Vietnam until he became Army chief of staff last June, said without the buildup of American troops in 1965 he doubts the South Vietnamese could have held out for more than six months.

But, he wrote, restrictions by the White House on military operations against Viet Cong and North Vietnamese sanctuaries in neighboring Laos, Cambodia and North Vietnam "made it impossible to destroy the enemy's forces in a traditional or classic sense."

Sharp, who as U.S. commander in the Pacific planned the air war against North Vietnam until his retirement last August, for his part said the "profound effect" of American bombing of the North probably induced Hanoi to seek relief by agreeing to the negotiations now underway in Paris.



Sharp Westmoreland

"The cumulative effects of air operations and the demands of the war in South Vietnam resulted in unprecedented stresses and strains on the North Vietnamese economy, production and distribution systems, the life of the people and the political control apparatus," Sharp wrote.

"Negotiations" Tactics

"Conditions may have been sufficiently serious to have induced North Vietnam to use the tactics of 'negotiation' to gain a period of relief in order to rectify its more pressing problems, and to reinvigorate support of the war in South Vietnam."

Although calling the bombing "the most precise in history," Sharp implied the raids could have been even more effective were it not for restrictions imposed by Washington for non-military reasons.

"From a military standpoint, both air and naval programs were inhibited by restrictions growing out of the limited nature of our conduct of the war," he said.

Sharp also stated that "additional operational latitude . . . would have enabled the execution of campaigns against North Vietnam which would have brought about a more rapid deterioration of the enemy's total war-supporting structure."

4-Year Period

Sharp's report covers a period from 1964, when the air war against the North was launched, through June 30, 1968, after it had been curtailed.

The raids started as punitive measures, but were increased to cut North Vietnamese support

Your Money's Worth

Inflation Restraints Should be Felt Soon

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If our economy does not slow down perceptively in the next few months, we will have to throw away every economics textbook we have studied and respected throughout our lives. We will have to admit that our theory that tax hikes and credit curbs can restrain inflation doesn't work when up against a real-life spiral. We will have to face the awful prospect that we don't know how to control a psychology of inflation when it becomes as feverish as in early '69.

We will have to say to ourselves "We cannot cure this wage-price spiral and expectations of a continued spiral with a 'scalpel treatment.' We will have to force a slump with a crude 'butcher knife approach' or we will have to slap on controls over business pricing and labor wage policies which will destroy our system under the pretense of preserving it."

Let me state my position right here. I will not accept the above despite the fact that a mounting number of responsible observers in the universities, business and banking are raising precisely these doubts. I think our economy's pace must slow in response to the tough steps being taken now.

I am confident that while it will take a long, long time to pull down the annual rate of rise in our cost of living from 1968-69's near 5 per cent level to a tolerable 2½ per cent range, we will achieve it. For finally, we are pursuing a wide variety of orthodox measures to cool an overheated economy. To list them for you:

(1) The overall total of taxes is being held at record heights and the 10 per cent surcharge will be extended in response to President Nixon's request. The maintenance of the surtax and of excise taxes plus the rising tax take from becoming business will raise federal revenues for fiscal '70 above the original projection of $198.7 billion.

Porter

(2) Federal spending is to be slashed. Assuming Nixon means what he says, next year's expenditures will be cut "significantly" below President Johnson's estimate of $195.3 billion.

(3) This will result in a budget surplus for the year to begin this July of well over $5 billion — meaning this net sum of money will be pulled out of the economy. This is an indisputably deflationary move and must exert some restraining influence.

(4) Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve System is following an increasingly aggressive anti-inflationary monetary (credit) policy with the aim of compelling the banking system to ration loans among borrowers. The money supply (currency in circulation plus private demand deposits at banks) is rising at an annual rate of less than 2 per cent now compared with an increase of almost 8 per cent at yearend. Savings deposits and member bank deposits are actually decreasing compared with sharp increases in the final months of '68. This must slash the capacity of banks to make loans.

(5) At the same time, the cost of loans is soaring to astronomical heights by any standard. With the bank rate to top risks at a minimum of 7½ per cent, the effective rate to even the most favored borrowers starts at 8-9 per cent — and loans to average borrowers zoom up from there. Loans to riskier sources and ordinary mortgage loans are going out of sight. This may not stop a borrower who desperately needs money but is surely will have an impact on those who aren't "hungry."

(6) The capital markets are in near chaos. As interest rates have skyrocketed, prices of fixed-interest obligations have plunged — and every purchase by an investor in recent years has turned into a painful loss. The demoralization in the bond markets is frightening.

We cannot correct in a couple of months the consequences of economic errors (of commission and of conceit) we have made over years. Today's orthodox policies can, though, help us gradually get back to reasonable price stability—and let us also not underestimate one bit the importance of our vast productive capacity, our enormous resources of manpower, machines and materials and of, ultimately, the end of the Vietnam war's pressures.

I recognize the skeptics are right so far. But I am far, far from ready to concede that after a lifetime of learning economics, I have learned less

Better Than Blindness

Operation for Cataract Is Almost Foolproof

By JOE WING

NEW YORK (AP) — It was just five years ago this spring that I began to go blind. But there was something I could do about it, and I did.

As a result, I can see now as well as anybody my age has a right to expect—better perhaps than you do. In the doctor's office my vision is 20-20, although it's not that perfect under actual working conditions.

What brought this all about was of course that I developed cataracts in both eyes and had them removed. Neglected cataracts, as one of my grandmothers could have testified, may well result in total blindness.

When friends first heard about my affliction, they seemed as shocked as if the surgeon had pointed a scalpel at one of their own eyeballs. Their sympathy made me feel pretty important, and helped scare the daylights out of me.

Waited Long

Of course nobody likes to have his eyes fooled with. And in spite of assurances from the opthamologists that such operations are nearly foolproof, I waited as long as I dared.

Really, though, it was quite simple. They drugged me until I was practically unconscious, slit open my left cornea, lifted out the clouded lens, and sewed the eye back up again. There was little pain and, thanks to new techniques, no necessity for immobilizing me. After five weeks, I had been fitted with special glasses, was back on the job and paying off the doctor's bill.

In my right eye also, however, there was an incipient cataract. It didn't develop as quickly as those things sometimes do, but a year ago I had to have it excised. A cataract, incidentally, is not a growth but simply a clouding of the natural lens. The only way to treat it is to remove the lens.

It's encouraging how quickly friends become inured to your sufferings. This time their sympathy quotient was much lower and in fact my own qualms were fewer. The actual operation assayed about the same the second time around in boredom and hospitalization miseries.

Good as Ever

People still keep on asking how I made out. Just fine, I tell them. I can see not merely in one but in 2½ ways.

With contact lenses and ordinary reading glasses, my vision is about as good as ever, though the contacts cause discomfort.

Without the contacts but wearing heavy, thick "cataract glasses," I have no more discomfort than anyone using spectacles, but my periphery vision is limited. As a result, I'm apt to bump into people on the street, and stumble upstairs, and find automobiles sneaking up on me.

If I discard both lenses and glasses, I can still see enough to get around a room or perhaps walk down the street. I've never tried it, but I cannot recognize anyone even two feet away.

So it's not all roses, and I recommend earnestly that you maintain good vision and, if possible, shun the operating table. But a cataract oeration sure beats blindness.

To Your Good Health

Moderation Is Best Even When Bathing

By George C. Thosteson, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How frequently should one take tub baths? Isn't there something about "too much water" on the skin?

My girl friend takes an average of 12 tub baths a week and she has a breaking out on her arm and on the thighs. Will you comment on this? — Mrs. A. T.

A daily bath or shower is reasonable; why your friends wants to soak about twice a day puzzles me, but maybe she has her reasons.

Excessive washing and sudsing — I guess there's such a word — can remove protective oils from the skin, making it vulnerable to irritation or infection. Skins vary a good deal in their tolerance to bathing.

But keep in this in mind: it isn't water, but rather the soap or detergent used in the bath, this is principally responsible for removing skin oils.

Just soaking in plain water 12 times a week isn't very likely to cause skin problems. If your friend uses a lot of lather, however, that could be drying her skin.

Or does she consistently use some sort of smellum or other bathtub materials to which she may have a sensitivity?

For readers in the older-age brackets, it is worth pointing out that older skins do not produce as much oil as younger ones, and excessive bathing, particularly soaping, can make the skin dryer than it should be. Itching often results.

I decline to condemn baths or cleanliness, but understanding the meaning of moderation can be a benefit to you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife went to the hospital for X-rays on account of back ache. They found she had a cyst in the left kidney. Would medication or diet help or does it require surgery? Her doctor said they would wait two months and X-ray again. — M. M.

This is one of many conditions which can cause back ache. Other symptons can be headache and the pressure of a mass in the abdomen. There often is a high red blood cell count.

Diet and medication do not help cystic kidneys. The only treatment is surgery to empty large cysts. There may be one cyst or several (presence of multiple cysts called polycystic kidney).

Periodic observation (as in your case) is necessary to determine when surgery is necessary.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know why smoking is prohibited after an operation replacing the aorta with synthetic material. I would think you might be allowed to smoke in moderation, or after the surgery has healed, but the doctors say no. Please explain, as the explanation they have given does not satisfy me. — C. E.

I can't explain another doctor's explanation that doesn't happen to meet your satisfaction. The doctors working with the patient know more about the condition of the patient's vascular (blood vessel) system than I do.

In this instance they obviously believe that smoking will be definitely harmful — as it can be in certain blood vessel disorders. Pleading moderation is begging the issue. If I were the patient, I would follow their instructions.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a person had a veneral disease 24 years ago and was treated for it, and then blood tests proved negative, could this same disease come back, or would it have to be picked up again by personal contact? — J. D.

It would have to be picked up through a new contact.

What causes "balance" trouble? What can be done to correct or overcome it? Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy of the booklet write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incroporated in his column whenever possible.

Easter Bonnet Is Symbol of Protest

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Using the traditional Easter bonnet as a symbol of protest against what they called social inequality, about 15 women attended a Roman Catholic Church service Sunday without covering their heads.

The Rev. Janes J. Wamser, celebrant of the mass at St. John de Nepomuc Church, admonished the demonstrators when he discovered they were in church without headwear.

The demonstration was sponsored by the Milwaukee chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW). After the mass, the group handed out pamphlets which read: "Hats off now, women. Let us not be humiliated, let us not be treated as second-class Christians . . . "

A spokesman, Mrs. Robert G. Ullrich, said her group wants to "raise the consciousness of the men and women of the parish that this type of hat covering is actually a symbol of the subjection of women. Therefore, it is a symbol of inequality."

The Motorola Quasar

All-transistor Color TV Except for Rectifier Tube

Most of the important components, for instance, are in a drawer that slides out.

And the works themselves are different, too. They are modules that plug in and plug out. Each module is a mini-circuit with its own job to do. There is a picture module, a color module, a sound module, and so on.

You can look around on those modules for tubes, but in the Quasar chassis, the only thing that looks like a tube is the rectifier. For the rest of it, transistors and other solid state devices have replaced tubes.

The Quasar is designed this way for dependable performance.

No machine is perfect, however. Even the Quasar will need service—sometime. And when it does, this design offers another benefit. If a module is the offender, it can be unplugged and its replacement plugged in. In your home. In minutes.

Hit at New London

Turned-on Duo Uses Mod Jargon To Bring God's Message to Teens

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — What's your bag?

We're doing our thing. It's cool, wild. We're turned on, not tuned out.

These phrases are heard from the Avant Garde, a rock duet from Nashville. Chuck Woolery and Bubba Fowler recently were based at Rawhide while making personal appearances through the area and appearing on the Rawhide benefit telethon.

What's so different about a couple of cool guys using hip language? Well, nothing except that these two fellows are using it to discuss their personal philosophy with teen-agers.

Not Drugs, Violence

This philosophy doesn't center on drugs, mind expanding substances or "doing your thing" by disturbance.

Woolery and Fowler say their thing is all wrapped up in the Christ Spirit. They spend as much time talking as singing. And what they are saying is getting home to many people — not just to the young.

Bubba explains about prayer. "Man, if God can't understand what I'm saying in my own language, there isn't any hope for me." His and Chuck's own language is the new dialect of teens. It's not difficult if you listen.

About 200 high school students and a smattering of adults took part in an after school session with the Avant Garde recently at New London High. The topic was religion and the philosophy of Chuck and Bubba — a personal relationship with Christ.

Early Organization

Bubba, holder of a master's degree in education, told the young people he became interested in entertainment five years after graduation. Chuck attended Morehead State College, Kentucky. The "Bordermen" organized about 3½ years ago, they said, but after a third member was drafted, Chuck and Bubba reorganized as the Avant Garde.

Now the Avant Garde is changing again. Bubba is reorganizing the group with five new members while Chuck is striking out as a single.

When questioned about drugs, Bubba said, "they probably are a substitute for something that's missing in the person's life, or, they could be rebellion against something. Every man has a basic need to fill a vacuum within himself. I believe there is only one way and that's the Christ Spirit."

Chuck, when signing his autograph adds, "Mathew 6-33" on the piece of paper. Bubba adds "Philippians I, 20-21." Both refer to the Holy Ghost.

Question Existence

"We've toured many campuses and have seen many people who have never stopped to think why they are here," Bubba said. "The manmade aspects of religion turn off a lot of people," he said.

The Christ Spirit, (Holy Ghost) was created by God to provide the means to come in harmony with Him, Bubba explained. "When I came to this realization it was like finding the secret of life. . .it fulfilled everything I needed and brought success, enjoyment and happiness," Bubba said.

Chuck replied to a question about several philosophies and Gods, "I don't believe there are a number of truths or a number of Gods in the world today, or a number of ways of coming in harmony with God.

"There is one truth, and one God," he said.

Chuck added, "I tried Christ about three years ago. He filled the void. . .He's done everything He said He would do scripturally, spiritually and every other way. He's been everything to me He said He would be."

God Speaks

God speaks through the Christ Spirit through the conscience, other people and the scriptures, the two evangelist crooners said. What is learned of the Christ Spirit comes from the Bible.

One student asked about dissatisfaction with religion he was reared and whether he should try different faith.

Bubba replied, "if you're in a situation not making it for you, I believe if you turn to Christ and accepting him in your personal life you can adjust. Because a church is grooving at this time, it doesn't mean it will always groove. The important thing is to develop a close relationship with God within yourself. Persons in all religions can be 'turned off' with their religion."

Another student asked about the Ten Commandments as the guide for life.

Bubba replied, "when you study the Bible under the direc*tion of the Christ Spirit you* know you can take a good deal of the scriptures and make anything out of what it says. A lot of people want to be so holy, so great, yet so rational . . . as a result they won't accept some things. 'I live by the commandments,' they say Which ones? There are 30,000 commandments in the Bible."

Lay It on, God

Chuck added, "God makes impressions on my mind, directs me to do certain things, you might say I get a hint or a hunch that God wants me to write a new song. So I go to Him and say, 'Look God, if you got a song for me, lay it on'."

"It works. That's how I got 'Naturally Stoned'," Chuck said. Oddly 'Naturally Stoned' was the title of the group's first big record turned out by Columbia records.

Unlike an earlier appearance at the school when the two were beseiged for autographs, several students stood around in small discussion groups and others sought private counselling at the end of this session.

$8.5 Million Cost

Bill Asks State Aid For Small Estates

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A proposal to replace private attorneys with state-financed legal assistance in probating smaller estates would cost the state treasury about $8.5 million a year.

That is the estimate the state department of revenue gave the Legislature on the possible effect of a bill drafted by a group of Milwaukee legislators.

The bill would provide a summary assignment procedure for the settlement of estates of under $60,000.

One of the sponsors, Assemblyman W. A. Johnson is the Legislature's leading critic of the existing probate procedure in which private lawyers are paid fees for their work in the settlement of estate large and small.

The Johnson bill would provide for the assistance of state officials in a series of regional offices when smaller estates cannot be summarily settled. (The bar is supporting an experimental system of summary settlement of estates of up to $10,000, and has said that according to the experience of such a plan, it may support a modification later.

The new bill proposes that when an estate cannot be summarily settled, a summary assignment procedure may be used by the probate court, 30 days after notice and publication, to convey the property to creditors and persons interested, subject to the rights of unknown creditors. Such assignees would be liable to unknown creditors for a period of three months only.

The revenue department would set up a seires of regional offices, manned by at least one service officer who would be a lawyer, to assist heirs in the administration of small estates under the direction of the court. In contested matters no petitioner would need to employ an attorney if a regional court service officer has been involved in the case.

The revenue department told the lawmakers that it would need one such regional office in each county to handle an estimated 30,000 estates of $60,000 and under in Wisconsin that go to probate each year, and constitute 95 per cent of all of the estates probated in Wisconsin.

Keep Mum About Any Mistakes

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The first rule for the tournament player is: Never be the first to draw attention to your own mistake. If you keep quiet, your partner may not notice what has taken place until hours later. By that time you may be quite safe — especially if you lock your door and take your telephone off the hook.

Opening lead — ♠ 2

West opened the deuce of spades when today's hand was played last month in the annual contest for the Vanderbilt Cup. South gratefully took both top spades, discarding the low hearts from dummy.

South next led a heart to dummy's ace and returned a low club. East was obliged to play the queen, and South happily played the king. West won with the ace of clubs and led another spade, forcing dummy to ruff.

Declarer drew a round of trumps with the jack, cashed the ace of diamonds and then led a trump to his own ten. This put South in position to lead the ten of diamonds for a finesse.

When the finesse succeeded South claimed the rest of the tricks, admitting sheepishly that he had been in a horrible contract since he had needed two finesses (trumps and diamonds) and a favorable opening lead to make his slam.

West shook his head dolefully, but was thinking more of South's ambitious bidding than of anything else. If East had kept quiet nobody would have noticed his mistake. Incidentally, have you noticed it?

East should have doubled North's cue-bid of four hearts. Since it was impossible for North or South to have good enough hearts to play the hand at four hearts, it cost East nothing to indicate that he would welcome a heart opening lead. With a heart lead South could not make even five clubs.

East's pass was costly, but it was a tactical error for him to say anything about it. The admission gave West ammunition for several hours of comment on East's bidding. What sensible player wants to open such a Pandora's Box?

Daily Question

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold: S-Q 8 6 2, H-K 8 7, D-Q 8 3, C-A 7 6. What do you say?

Answer. Bid one spade. You can bid notrump at your next turn. The hand is too strong for an immediate response of 1-NT, but not strong enough for a jump to 2-NT.

How to Keep Velvet Looking Brand New

You can keep your velvet fashions looking like new with an occasional home-steming to perk up the lustrous nap. Hang over bathtub filled with hot water, closing doors and windows to keep steam in room. After one-half hour, brush garment softly in upward strokes. Steam for approximately another half hour, and allow to dry thoroughly before touching. Always use padded hangers for velvets; never use clamps or metal skirt clips, which will mark the fabric by flattening the pile. When packing for a trip, save velvets for the last item to be packed on top of suitcase, use tissue and cardboard in the folds.

Make Headboard

More Innovations Introduced For Home Cooking Centers

Instant foods may not have enjoyed instant popularity when first introduced but today these convenience items represent about 70 per cent of all purchased groceries.

Only a handful of items made up the first "add-hot-water-and-stir" group: instant coffee, tea bags, bouillon cubes, gelatins and an occasional soup mix.

Today there's any number of convenience foods that need hot water to start or finish the cooking: oatmeal, casserole combinations, cook-in-the-bag foods and even pet foods. And there's a wider variety of gelatins, cake frostings, instant hot beverages and frozen vegetables.

To make these convenience foods more worthy of the name, one company has developed a unique range with its own hot water tap built right into the control panel.

At the touch of a finger on the pushbutton dispenser, 185-degree hot water is released. Pressing the lip of a cup or pan against the trigger below the tap also starts the hot water flow, allowing one-hand operation:

Dishwashing is easier because pans may be put to soak immediately after using, right at the range.

Use of extra pans and teakettles is reduced since hot water may be drawn directly into a cup for coffee or a bowl for instant oatmeal or cream of wheat. And the absence of steaming teakettles will reduce overall kitchen soil to walls and curtains.

The new hot water cooking convenience has been incorporated into a 30-inch free-standing range with self-cleaning oven. Once simple controls are set, controlled high heat transforms oven soil into vapor and a trace of ash.

Another company has recently introduced an oven that continuously cleans itself.

Removable oven sides, back and bottom panels and door liner all have a special new porcelain enamel finish that resists food soil and the oven actually cleans itself while the user bakes and roasts at regular temperatures.

According to a company spokesman, "The special chemical treatment of the oven parts in this new method, prevents soil from adhering or hardening on the oven; therefore, the oven doesn't just clean itself, it stays clean, at no extra cost to operate.

Hot Drinks Are Really Instant with hot water tap built right into this new range control panel. Touch of the pushbutton releases water directly into a cup, bypassing the wait for the teakettle to whistle. Pressing lip of cup or pan against trigger below the tap also starts hot water flow.

Royal Continental Sandals go foot first into sun country. By Uniroyal, the shimmering sorcery of "sun bugs" thongs are in shiny patent Royalon that tingles with tantalizing color. Or stroll down to the sea in stripping "sunkist" straps flashing with a burst of flippy color combinations that match summer's mood. These sprightly footnotes keep their bright good looks wearing after wearing because they are scuff-proof and hand washable.

Nylon Velvet Heads Spring Shoe News

Think velvet shoes are for parties only? Not today's modern velvet — it's stepping out as one of the most important new fabrics trends in shoes for every activity, from boots to dancing sandals. Sturdy, beautiful Wondervel nylon velvet is the newest look of fashion luxury in children's and women's shoes, yet embodying a remarkable practicality. It is scuff-crush-and-spot resistant; doesn't pick or thin with hard wear. To remove stains, simply clean with a light soap-and-water sponging.

Add Wine to Stew

Gourmet cooks add wine to slow-cooking ragouts and stews. The alcohol in the wine boils away, but the flavor remains. What's more the acid in the wine serves as a tenderizer for the meat.

Your Problems

Blindness No Problem for Representative

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I cannot truthfully say I read the letter signed "A Friend's Friend." It was read to me by Bill Fitzgerald, a colleague in the Michigan House of Representatives. I am blind.

Landers

I was interested in the letter, as Bill knew I would be, because it concerned a mother whose son had decided to marry a blind girl. The question was raised — "What if they have children?"

My wife Jennie, who is also blind, married me 27 years ago. (We met in Michigan's School for the Blind in Lansing.) Jennie and I had ten children — every one of them with perfect vision and in excellent health. Our life together has been wonderful. Our oldest child is 24. Our youngest is 7. We have two grandchildren.

In my 15 years as an elected member of the Michigan State House of Representatives, I've made countless trips from Lansing to Detroit. I used to travel with my Seeing-Eye dog. I now travel alone.

I hope "Friend's Friend" sees this and stops worrying about what blind people can't do. — Robert D. Mahoney, Sixth District.

Dear Robert Mahoney: Thank you for an inspiring letter. And thank you, too, for the photograph of your family. The girls are lovely! The boys are handsome. You and Mrs. Mahoney have a great deal to be proud of.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a boy, 18, a freshman in college. I never cut classes, I take good notes, and I do a considerable amount of outside study. Yet my grades are no better than average. I know kids who cut like crazy, sleep during lectures, have never owned a notebook, and their grades are consistently better than mine.

Today I got back a psychology exam. I made a 78. The kid next to me got a 99. When I asked if he studied for the exam, he said, "Of course not. I faked it." I'm ready to start "faking it" and see what happens. I bet I'll be on probation before you can say "Wilhelm Wundt."

What's the secret of making good grades besides pure study? Is there some secret to it? Thanks for any help you can give me — Begging for a C

Dear Beg: First accept the fact that "all men are created equal" doesn't apply to educational aptitude. Some students soak up information like a blotter and retain nearly all of it. Others must work their heads to the bone in order to comprehend half of what they read and hear and then they forget three fourths of that within six hours.

If you slave as hard as you claim and make only average grades, my advice is to keep plugging. You will form work habits which will prove far more valuable than a flashy grade point average.

I also suggest that you have a talk with your professors and ask them why you must knock yourself out to get mediocre grades. You might pick up some useful clues.

Knit it yourself

Cherished Crochet and Knit

A suit to be cherished — accomplished by the virtuoso with a crochet hook. Rich lace reflecting the Renaissance era tops a plain knit skirt, satisfying the demand for excellence in creative fashion. Plain pearl buttons can easily be tinted to match the yarn and a pair of short gloves dyed at the same time, if desired. French blue is our choice for spring but this favorite synthetic comes in dozens of glorious colors. For knitters who want to knit the skirt on their knitting machine, either convert this pattern or order an extra pattern (MK-359), which includes two shells and this same basic skirt. Sizes small, medium and large are all included in each pattern.

To order, Hand Knit-506 Crochet Jacket Suit. Machine Knit-359 Paradise Shell Duet and Skirt, send $1 for each in currency, check or money order to, Lois Holmes of California, Post-Crescent, Box 6002, Inglewood, Calif. 90302

Please print your name, address, zip code and pattern numbers plainly. Send 15 cents for each pattern for first-class mail and special handling, or 25 cents each for air mail.

DEAR LOIS: Can you suggest a way of using up a lot of cotton rug yarn of different colors? It cannot be a pattern that requires an exact amount of certain colors since this is a hodge-podge of leftovers I think I have enough materials to make a rug. I've been making crochet-covered hangers. They are wonderful for gifts and for knits that can be hung on a hanger without damage. They keep all types of clothing from slipping. — Lilani M.

Dear Lilani: A friend made me some of the crochet-covered hangers that you speak of and I agree they're wonderful.

Since you want to make a rug, why not make a multi-color one, spacing some of the basic color that you have the most of or simply making it hit-or-miss, if there is not an outstanding amount of one color. You can knit it tubular, fringe it and back stitch across several of the stripes with a larger yarn needle to hold it firmly together. Foam rubber strips tacked in place on the back would make it safer. I remember when we used to tack rubber fruit jar rings in place for this purpose. Do you remember those? This may reveal several things to you. Yes, part of my life was spent living on a farm and I'm 43 years old. I used to help do canning.

* * *

Dear Readers: In my finishing I always say to mark the center of sleeve cap. It was pointed out to me by one of my staff that it is easier to find the exact center if you place the marker while you still have the sleeve on the machine, before the last bind off. This would be true, also, in hand knitting. Mark the last knitted row.

New York Fashion Show Highlights Cottons

NEW YORK — The prominence of cotton as a high fashion material was highlighted today at the annual American Cotton Fashion Award ceremony and show in the Plaza Hotel. Geoffrey Beene, a well-known New York designer, received the Award trophy for the second time in his career. He is the only designer ever to be given the honor twice — winning first in 1965.

A group of 39 costumes from the Beene summer collection formed the second half of the fashion show which began with the traditional "Blue Ribbon Cottons," selections from many fashion collections. Producing the show was Eleanor Lambert.

Making up the jury who designated the award to Geoffrey Beene were 12 well-known retailers and fashion editors. The jury cited Beene's consistent recognition of cotton as a luxury fiber worthy of the utmost in elegant treatment and cited his particularly inventive use of cotton fabrics to "express mood as well as newness in silhouette" in his 1968-69 collections.

The first half of the showing, "Blue Ribbon Cottons," began with a group called "The All-Purpose Pants Suit." Pants and tops in the new bold patterned cotton weaves, rain-treated cotton poplin, printed piques and sheer organdy, batiste and voile were shown in their current 'round-the-clock summer role.

Scene II, "Cotton Caravan," ran the gamut of this summer's varied cotton textures from bold arrogant prints on twill, over-printed cotton brocades, the new refinements in texture such as thin homespuns, cotton satin and satiny gingham to vaporous cotton evening sheers.

Scene III, called "Fashion: Yellow," showed cottons in the new sunny, buttery and golden tones. Scene IV, "Summer Breathers," was a drift of summer voiles, eyelet and organdy in everything from pant dresses to gypsy gowns to a replay of the actual recent society wedding which was dressed in cotton voile and lace nightdresses by Sylvia Pedlar of Iris. Scene V, "Moonlighting," was a summarizing of evening fashions by many designers.

Knitting's History

Samples of wool knitted fabrics were found among the ruins of Dara, in Europe, which fell in 256 A.D. Knitting is probably the oldest form of textile fabrication, allied to weaving and to the netting and knotting of fishnets and snares.

Wool Fights Fire

Wool is the safest fiber for wear or use in household furnishings because of its flame-resistance. It will scorch, but never burst into flames. If a fire starts in a home, the recommended emergency procedure is to smother it with a wool rug, wool blanket or heavy wool coat. It is estimated that 55 per cent of deaths caused by clothing fires happen to youngsters under nine or adults over 75.

Hickel Voices His Hopes

Hudson, Potomac Rivers Like 'Mountain Streams'?

By STAN BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Interior Walter J Hickel says he favors gradually upgrading clean water standards until such now polluted rivers as the Hudson and Potomac flow as pure as mountain streams

I think possibly in a period of ten years that could be obtained,' added the former Alaska governor in an Associated Press interview—his first in depth talk with newsmen since he joined President Nixon's Cabinet in a blaze of controversy two months ago

Much of the earlier furor centered on Hickel's conservation views In the interview he said 'conservation has to be something that gives the greatest benefit to the greatest number of people'

"Used Wisely"

"To set aside a vast land of forest just for conservation and not to plan any use of that is not wise in my opinion," the secretary said By 'using wisely' I might say that if people look at it that could be used wisely But if you can't look at it that's another story

Here are excerpts from the interview

Q Mr Secretary what is your philosophy on man and his environment and what is the Interior Department's responsibility in this area'

A We have within this department some phases of everyday living that touch every American We have natural resources, we have people—our Indians and Eskimos and Aleuts We have problems of safety and health And I think if you want to put it into a sort of nutshell the Department of the Interior should look ahead to the year 1990 or 2000 to see what we will need in the way of developing these natural resources of this country

Q . . Would you explain what kind of conservation you favor and what kind you oppose?

Greatest Benefit

A. I sincerely believe that conservation has to be something that gives the greatest benefit to the greatest number of people I think there are areas that we should set aside these things that are only of natural beauty and are attainable through that natural beauty

Q If industrial development for example, conflicts with natural beauty how do you decide what's the wisest use'

A I think we set the guidelines because it isn't a wise thing, for example to have possibly an industrial development where it would hinder natural beauty or it might hinder and affect the lives of many people not connected with that industrial development

I think industry in many cases has been doing an excellent job, but by the very nature of our competitive system I think it's up to government to set guidelines that make it fair to all industries concerned and not if you had it just on a total voluntary basis

Q On the question of water quality, how do you feel about applying the nondegradation standard—which prohibits lowering the quality of existing pure waters not only in states which have adopted it but in attempting to get it applied in states which have not yet adopted it'

A Well I'd like to talk about the whole water problem At my first press conference I stated I don't think the United States could have or should have one water standard and by the way that is the law now And what I had in mind was not about the West or Alaska because if you had one water standard how could you really get mountain pure water out of the Hudson River at that moment? And I think that is the attainable goal We could set a water standard and we could live with it in any areas where water hasn't been degraded but how do you attain it that quick in areas where it has been degraded' I think be to the problem

I think the ultimate solution is to have mountain pure water in the rivers that are now polluted I think possibly in a period of ten years that could be attained

Penalizing People

And so, if you have one standard you're really penalizing the areas that have the greatest concentration of industries and people—especially people

So I think the goal should be number one let it be on a state by state basis and if the state doesn't come up to the water standards that are desired then the federal government could intervene But at this point I think you have to have more than one standard First you have the water that is polluted and how do you get it back to its pure standard and the other is to set a standard in other areas that keeps the water from being degraded to the point that these other waters are now

Q If a state does not voluntarily adopt a nondegradation policy would you take positive action to try to apply that policy'

A Yes I think we will As a matter of policy that would be one of the areas we would move in I don't want to get that specific because each one is a little different We are going to obviously enforce the water quality act

Technological Problem

Q What you're saying is that ultimately the goal would be mountain pure water everywhere if you could do it But it's a technological problem

A Right The ultimate thing would be to get the Potomac as clean as it was sometime years ago but it wouldn't be attainable to say that we're going to do it this year there would be gradations forward to gain the mountain-pure standard, but not the other way around

The present standards should be upgraded as soon as technology is available and attainable

Q You had a little bit of a hard time in your confirmation hearings How has the reception to you been up on Capitol Hill now that you're in

A As far as I'm concerned I don't think that the Senate hearings were really that difficult I think they had some preconceived ideas about me I think that Sen Henry M Jackson D Wash chairman of the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee summed it up well in a national magazine when he said All the charges against Hickel just blew up I think that's the fact of the case and I think that our relationship with the Senate is excellent

Close to Oil Interests

Q Oil has been one of your big beats since you got the nomination and one reason was that you were accused of being a fellow close to the oil industry Would you comment

A I went through all that at the hearings I'm not in the oil business two of the men that I appointed to the state positions in Alaska when Hickel was governor that were from the oil industry were the most competent men that I could put in

I think my knowledge of the industry as such as governor of Alaska helped solve the problem of Santa Barbara (the recent oil-well leak) and I might say that if I were faced with the same decision (about offshore oil leasing) in Santa Barbara, with my knowledge that I would never have allowed a Santa Barbara to happen

Q On national parks, do you have specific plans to seek supplemental appropriations or more manpower to reopen the parks on a seven-day week?

Extra Funds

A We have instructed the parks to figure out a way to keep them open on a seven-day-a week basis, we've asked for a supplemental appropriation I don't think it's right that something the public owns and wants to visit, that we should tell them what days a week they can do it

Q How much of a supplemental did you ask for?

A They're talking about $2 million for this fiscal year and considerably more than that from the standpoint of just keeping the parks open for the next year

Jaycees Plan River Banks Work Party

KAUKAUNA — The Jaycees who have adopted the Fox River bank improvement project, are planning a work party April 13 to begin seeding a portion of the bank between the Lawe Street and Wisconsin Avenue bridges

Last year crews and local contractors provided time and machines to clear the bank of heavy brush and accumulated debris in preparation for the improvement program. Recently the common council appropriated $178 to purchase grass seed, mulch, fertilizer, black dirt and other materials needed for the seeding project.

The seed ordered has a heavy root base and is similar to that used by the state on highway projects to prevent erosion on steep shoulders. The supplier had indicated it would hold back the soil from filtering into the river

Future plans call for the addition of shrubs, trees and flowers to further improve the appearance of the bank The most extensive project will be bank improvement from the Lawe Street bridge west to Doty Street

City crews will assist with the project.

For years cabbies have complained about the noise in the driving area Acoustics engineers who checked into the complaints agreed with the drivers and now all new taxis will be fitted with sound-deadening systems

HUD Delay On Housing Questioned

Byrnes Quizzes Officials

Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay) intends to contact the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) this week on the status of Appleton's application for a low rent housing project.

Almost two years ago the Appleton Housing Authority filed application for a housing-for-the-elderly project grant.

The city's proposed project — calling for 200 to 250 living units — is reportedly bogged down in the HUD regional office at Chicago.

The recent announcement that new HUD Secretary George Romney had halted all grants pending project reviews, has been interpreted as another delay in the decision on what Appleton will get, if anything.

Others Get Grants

In the meantime, other communities around the state have been receiving grants and are constructing housing for the elderly.

Byrnes told The Post-Crescent Friday in a telephone conversation from Washington that he "would look into the Appleton housing project matter this week."

U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) wrote city officials this morning that he, too, has checked on the Appleton application and was informed by HUD officials they are awaiting submittal of a tenant plan from the local housing authority.

"Once this is received," Nelson said he was advised, "the Appleton application will be processed and a decision made."

Filing Information

Recently, Leon Jensen, housing authority chairman, said he was filing information with the HUD office at Chicago which would show need for more than the 100 units suggested by federal officials in an informal recommendation recently.

In the meantime, Mayor George Buckley says he has been receiving complaints from Appleton residents over the delay in this city getting an elderly housing project underway.

Buckley, vacationing in California, will be back at his desk Wednesday.

'Regrouping' Planned

Festge Likely to Get Alliance Job

Mayor Otto Festge of Madison has more than enough votes to be elected the first full-time executive secretary of the 18-member Alliance of Cities, it was learned today.

Festge, a two-term mayor who did not seek re-election last week, is expected to be the choice of the alliance board of directors when it meets at Oshkosh Thursday night.

The job will pay $15,000 to $16,000 a year, with Festge headquartered at the newly-opened alliance office about a block from the state capitol.

Supported by Buckley

Mayor George Buckley of Appleton, alliance treasurer and a representative of the Fox Valley area on the board, is on record as supporting Festge.

Festge, one of the alliance founders, was long active in Dane County government prior to being elected mayor of Madison.

The alliance is a lobbying group of the state's largest cities, representing well over 2 million population.

It has been an outspoken supporter of urban bills before the Wisconsin Legislature, especially those dealing with fiscal relief and annexation law reform for the cities.

Ranks Are Thinned

Last Tuesday's election, which saw the electorate defeat state mayors, thinned the ranks of the alliance.

Three mayors — William Beyer, Racine; Robert Rand, Manitowoc; and Joseph Browne, Sheboygan — were defeated However, their cities will still belong to the alliance, being represented by their successors.

Beyer, alliance vice president, was defeated by a political newcomer, Kenneth L. Huck, who ran on a tax relief and antischool bond referendum platform

The defeated mayors are expected to bring their successors to this week's alliance meeting

The action of the legislature's joint finance committee last week in making budget cuts which will all but cripple the programs of the State Department of Urban Affairs, created last year to assist the cities, is expected to come under heavy fire from the city officials when the alliance meets in Oshkosh.

Mayor Henry W. Maier, Milwaukee, remarked over the weekend that in view of last week's developments, the alliance would have to regroup, and perhaps ". . .start all over again."

In connection with alliance activities, officials and members of city councils from Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Kaukauna have been invited to view a colored film, "Cities in Crisis," which deals with Wisconsin's urban problems and looks at major "town tax islands" in the state.

The showing will be at Appleton City Hall April 16 at 6:30 p.m.

Higher Levies Unlikely, Researchers Say

Tarr Plan Will Equalize Tax Level

MADISON (AP)— A research group says there is little evidence to support fears that municipalities would take advantage of the Tarr task force's shared tax recommendation by increasing local tax levies.

The Citizens Governmental Research Bureau, in a report issued Saturday, said its study of the Tarr committee's work indicates the recommended tax would do exactly as intended—making tax levels among Wisconsin municipalities more equal.

The Tarr committee, appointed by Gov. Warren P. Knowles, has drawn up proposals for revised distribution of taxes which the state shares with communities. The tax proposals, including transitional payments and increased school aids, are before the legislature in the form of Senate Bill 249.

'Greater Uniformity'

The bureau said it is satisfied that the Tarr plan would "reduce the number of Wisconsin communities with unusually high or unusually low tax rates" and would "achieve greater uniformity of rates."

The bureau estimated that local property taxes in 1,450 of Wisconsin's 1,836 municipalities could be reduced because of the increased assistance from the state. The few communities in which taxes would rise would be eligible for temporary assistance to offset the increases.

Critics of the Tarr proposals have said that, with the state assuming some of the tax burden, municipalities will be tempted to increase taxes for no reason other than making a little extra money in the relaxed local tax atmosphere.

Cite Arguments

The bureau said it doubts this would be so, and cites statistical agruments outlined by the Tarr group to discount the possibility of what it called an irresponsible reaction from local officials.

Under the Tarr program, the state's share of corporate and income taxes, vehicle registration fees, utility taxes and liquor taxes would remain unchanged.

The municipalities' and counties' share would be consolidated in a separate fund with appropriations for property tax relief.

From this fund, local government units would get payments to help fill in any financial pinch caused by a utility's property tax exemption.

Each municipality also would receive payments geared to population—payments of $30 per resident.

Tax Relief

The balance of the fund would be used as tax relief for communities having a tax rate of more than $20 per $1,000 equalized valuation, and a county would get payments equal to 15.9 per cent of the share paid to municipalities in that county.

The bureau said the plan not only promises to reduce inequality of tax levels between communities, but could save Wisconsin taxpayers about $120,000 a year in bookkeeping expenses alone.

It also would be easier for communities to cope with the problems of increased population because the formula of aid allows per capita payments to increase as new municipal residents arrive.

The bureau points out that although local tax levels may become more equal, the relative tax positions between communities would not change.

Still Be Lowest

For example, the three Milwaukee suburbs with the lowest current tax rates— Wauwatosa, West Milwaukee and Glendale— would still be the lowest under the Tarr plan.

For that matter, the four highest in the area — Milwaukee, Greendale, Greenfield and Franklin — would still be the highest. The new formula would simply bring them closer to the average.

Today's 61 Is Warmest Day of 1969

Appleton's official temperature reading of 61 at noon today represented the warmest day so far this year.

The Fox Cities' weather was much like that of Easter Sunday, sunny and pleasant.

Skies were mostly clear throughout the state during the night and no precipitation was reported.

La Crosse had the highest state temperature of 60 Sunday. Other highs were Madison and Eau Claire 58, Beloit 56, Wausau 53, Park Falls and Appleton 52, Green Bay 51, Superior 48 and Milwaukee 46.

The lowest temperature in Wisconsin early today was 28 at Lone Rock and Wausau. Other minimums were Eau Claire 29, Milwaukee and Green Bay 31, Beloit and La Crosse 35 and Superior 37.

Appleton Man Caught After Prison Escape

An Appleton youth was one of four inmates who escaped Saturday from the Fox Lake Correctional Institution.

Thomas Gilbert, 20, 615 N. State St., Appleton, and Raymond Benson, 19, Wisconsin Rapids, were taken into custody in nearby Firesland, in Columbia County, shortly after their escape from the Fox Lake medium security prison.

Still at large today are Robert Gadsinski, Manitowoc, and Michael Tarl, Kenosha, both 19.

The four were on a recreation break when they made their escape by leaping over several fences. They were in work clothes.

Gilbert was sentenced to two years in the State Reformatory on Dec. 10 after pleading guilty in Outagamie County Branch 2, of burglarizing the One-More Bar, 614 W. College Ave., early the morning of Nov. 11

An 18-year-old Appleton youth who was involved in the burglary with Gilbert was placed on probation.

School Office Made Shambles

Police Discover Vandalism Done to Johnston School

Johnston School, on the far southeast side, Sunday became the latest target of school vandals.

The burglary and vandalism was discovered by a patrolman about 11 p.m. Sunday.

Vandals entered the grade school by breaking a 22 by 27-inch window on the northeast side of the building.

Once inside, they made "a complete shambles of the office," according to police. Extensive damage was done to a typewriter, a record player, a telephone which was torn from a control box, two duplicating machines, one of which was found on the front lawn, and a plate glass counter top which was smashed.

The vandals sprayed the contents of nine fire extinguishers onto hallway floors which had all just been waxed. A piano in a hallway was extensively damaged, police said.

Nine reels of projector film were unraveled on the school lawn and in the office.

Police said the vandalism occurred between 4 and 10 p.m. Sunday.

A full estimate of damage was being made today. Several other city schools have been vandalized in recent weeks, although none as extensively as Johnston School.

Car Reported Stolen

Appleton police were notified this morning that a 1965 Chevrolet was stolen from Al Rudolf Motors between Saturday and today.

Residents Want Trucks Rerouted

Several N. Meade Street residents are protesting heavy truck traffic on their street and want it rerouted onto Ballard Road.

A petition, bearing about 70 signatures, has been sent to Mayor George Buckley and the city council requesting immediate action.

In 1964 many of the same property owners filed objections to Meade Street truck traffic.

Apparent Suicide Attempt Thwarted By Appleton Police

Appleton police thwarted an apparent suicide attempt about 2 a.m. today on the E. College Avenue bridge.

A patrolman said he was driving over the bridge when he noticed a man standing near the railing, looking into the water below.

The patrolman radioed for assistance. Police were able to talk the man into the squad car. He was questioned at the police station, where he told police he had intended to jump from the bridge

The 34-year-old man, who said he was having marital problems, was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital after he told police he wanted help

For Police, Merchants

Shoplifters' File Will be Established

A central file of all shoplifting offenses will be established in the Fox Cities soon to provide merchants and police with full information on offenders who are caught.

It will be the first central file on law breaking in the Fox Cities

The Shoplifting Protection Committee of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce met last week to work out details of the filing system.

Tom Schomish, manager of Newmans store on W. College Avenue and chairman of the committee, said store owners and policemen now are often in the dark about the past records of shoplifters who are caught.

Not Aware

Since there is no central file, they know only the offenses the suspect has committed in one city, village or town and are not aware of offenses he may have committed in other Fox Cities communities.

If a person is apprehended at an Appleton store, for example, he may have a previous record of shoplifting offenses at a Town of Grand Chute store, but Appleton police would not know about it.

Merchants and police should have full information on previous records in order to deal with shoplifters properly, Schomisch pointed out He said many suspects, especially youths who now are treated as first offenders, actually have long records and should go to court.

Appleton, Town of Grand Chute, Neenah and Menasha merchants will be asked to submit records of all shoplifting offenses to the central file, whether police action is taken or not.

Have Access

Both merchants and police from all the communities will have immediate access to information in the file in order to take appropriate action against shoplifters.

Various studies and state authorities have urged creation of a central file for all illegal acts committed in Outagamie County, but the suggestion has never been implemented by police agencies.

The committee hopes to have the shoplifting file in operation in a month or so.

It is part of the committee's effort to reduce shoplifting in the area. The committee recently completed an educational program in all Fox Cities junior and senior high schools.

It is also planning to undertake an intensive survey of the police, court and social service agencies in Outagamie County as they relate to juvenile problems. The National Council on Crime and Delinquency has been asked to make the study.

Board of Education Newcomers' Views

Dollars, City Council Relations Worry New Members

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Appleton Board of Education's two new board members disagree somewhat on what will be the board's major problem in coming years, but both pledge to make themselves felt in guiding the school system.

Mrs. Mabel McClanahan, 1106 W. Wisconsin Ave., cited "all types of financing" as the major concern. However, she said the educational program must be advanced continually to meet the needs of the future

Karl Becker, 1218 W. Frances St., sees the board of education and city council relationship as the major problem. The board must convince the council it is spending wisely, something it has not always succeeded in doing in the past, he noted.

Becker and Mrs. McClanahan, the top vote-getters in last Tuesday's election, were interviewed this morning on what they feel could be done to improve the public school operation.

A third successful candidate was John Schneider, who won re-election and the third highest vote total in a field of six

Mrs. McClanahan said she did not intend "to go off on my own to explore these things (problem areas)" but will bring suggestions to the board of review.

She said the board must work to provide "a good education within the financial limitations" which are a reality

"Education is very costly, we are going to have to find the means," she said However, she noted there must be a balance between the financial means and the needs of the students

She said she did not think the system had gone overboard on pilot and experimental programs This is vital for an educational system to keep up with the times, she said.

Volunteer Lecturers

She suggested the board should work to maintain a level of costs but not cut them One idea she indicated she would offer is using volunteer lecturers from the community, as is being done in Boston, Mass., and Fountain Valley, Calif. This would take pressure off of hiring teachers, the major cost area she said

She also said that leasing parochial or church facilities might be a solution, although she indicated she was aware of the administrative problems

Mrs. McClanahan viewed her selection as "somewhat of a swing toward (fiscal) conservatism," a middle-of-the road conservatism

Becker, who withheld any views on cost cutting or teacher salaries, said the city council apparently has doubts about the board's spending "

He did not question the spending but noted a communication barrier apparently had split the two bodies

"We've got to learn to be listeners," he said of the board, "because we have to go to the council for funds and convince them that they're needed "

He termed his election a taxpayers' rejection" of the present way the city council and the board of education have been operating particularly fiscally

"I will be a listener of what the taxpayer wants," he said

Educate Outagamie Adults, Youths

Marijuana Incidents Unproven

BY MYRNA COLLINS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Police and school officials in smaller Outagamie County communities agree for the most part that marijuana probably is being used by some youths there as well as by some young people in the Fox Cities But all agree that they have been unable to find proof so far of the rumored sale and use of drugs.

This is the first of a three-part series discussing drug abuse problems in the Fox Valley Today's installment concerns the situation in Outagamie County Succeeding stories will explore the problem in Calumet and Waupaca counties.

Seymour Police Chief William Hietpas says "We're not naive enough to think that this is the only area to have escaped We have good reason to suspect that marijuana, and possibly other things, are being used here." He adds, however, that there is no proof to back up suspicions.

Police and school officials concentrate on trying to keep young people from becoming experimenters with narcotics by pointing out the dangers of using drugs Programs have been presented and are planned for high school groups and adults, both by the Seymour and by Appleton police officials.

Usage Rumored

Seymour High School Principal John Peterson says, too, that there are rumors, but nothing more. Though efforts have been made to follow up on suspected marijuana incidents, officials have been unable to substantiate any of them.

Narcotics Session

"If there is any problem here, it's awfully small and awfully quiet," New London Police Chief Jack Algiers said of the possible use of marijuana by young people in that area.

He admitted there had been "A few rumors," but blamed these largely on "people who let their imaginations run away with them" Police have made efforts to follow up on the rumors, but have been unable to find anything that could be taken as evidence of drug use.

New London High School officials recently sent student council members to a session on marcotic use presented in Madison. Films, tapes and other information have been made available for teachers to use in social studies classes, according to M. John Huppler, guidance counselor.

Appleton police narcotics experts also have presented programs on the dangers of the use of marijuana and drugs to students on both the high and junior high school level.

"No problems so far," is the way both Shiocton and Hortonville school officials have described conditions. Both schools have provided informational programs for young people, and officials in the two schools are hopeful that problems will continue to be averted.

Police Chief Douglas Jones of Hortonville pointed out that police from all over the area meet monthly to keep up on methods of crime prevention and control and that these meetings often center on the possible use of narcotics among young people. "If police in one area know of a pusher or user, they make sure police everywhere know about him, too," he said.

CESA Effort

Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) 8 has recognized the increasing importance of programs to alert young people to the dangers of drugs and is considering a course for addition to the high school curriculum.

The matter was explored recently at a special meeting on "Drugs, Alcohol and Tobacco — From the Teens' Point of View." Student representatives attended from every school in the agency area except Bear Creek.

Youths at the session freely admitted that drug use on the high school level is "widespread."

The students felt parents should be included in developing a drug-alcohol curriculum, but said that lack of parental interest in general probably is the biggest single cause of seeking escape through drugs or alcohol.

The young people felt a constructive curriculum could be developed by the agency.

Recount Drops 8 Ballots on School Vote

NEENAH — A ballot recount Saturday on the $4.5 million new school referendum turned up eight questionable votes in the city and two of the four townships making up the school district.

The ballot review discovered five more ballots than registered voters in the Town of Vinland. According to Neenah Clerk-Comptroller R. V. Hauser, this could have occurred when five persons received two ballots instead of one. "They can sometimes stick together," he said.

To make the voters match the ballots, five were drawn at random and all were "yes" votes.

The recount of one machine in the city's Eighth Ward gave the "no" side an extra vote. The original count had been 23 in favor and three oposed. The recount was 22 for and 4 against.

In the Town of Clayton, 249 voters had been registered, but one was from another school district. Another random pullout subtracted a "yes" vote.

The final count slimmed the "yes" victory margin to 13 votes, 3,414 yes and 3,402 "no".

Eye of Congregation On Ike's Pew Empty First Time Since '60

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — The eyes of the congregation were on Dwight D. Eisenhower's empty pew at the Community Presbyterian Church It was the first Easter since 1960 that Ike wasn't there.

"He was the image of the very best that you and I and our nation profess to stand for," said the Rev. Dean W. Miller.

A braided purple cord closed the pew. A plaque read "The General and Mrs. Dwight D Eisenhower's pew. President 1952-1960."

The Eisenhowers joined the church when they vacationed in California during the general's presidency. After he left the White House, Eisenhower and his wife were among the most active members of the church during their winter vacations here.

"We shall miss him greatly," said the Rev. Mr. Miller.

New London Man Jailed for Drug Charges

OSU Student Told Case Could Not Be Taken Lightly

OSHKOSH—Gene Alfred Earl, 27, New London, was sentenced to two years in the Wisconsin State Reformatory at Green Bay this morning on an amended charge of possession of marijuana.

Outagamie County Circuit Judge Andrew Parnell, sitting in Winnebago County Circuit Court, told the defendant, who was a student at Oshkosh State University, that to deal lightly with the case would be "bad for the morale of the whole university community."

Earl had originally pleaded innocent of possession and sale of marijuana but changed his plea to guilty on Feb. 17 to the amended charge.

Judge Parnell, in pronouncing sentence, noted that Earl had "deliberately become involved in the sale of illegal drugs." The judge added that Earl's own use of the drugs was not so bad but that he had "extended himself to involve others."

Earl was arrested by authorities Feb. 9, 1968, after selling a package of marijuana to an 18-year-old OSU coed who was working as an informant for the district attorney's office.

Dist. Atty. Thomas Fink said that when Earl was arrested he had possession of five packages of marijuana, six packages of hashish and six packages of opium.

Beatles Set Up New Hollywood Disc Firm

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Beatles have set up show in Hollywood for a new record company, and their first release will be a recording of newlyweds John Lennon and Yoko Ono talking.

Zapple Records, an offshoot of the Beatles' Apple Corp., will record only "spoken word" albums and what the quartet describes as "releases of a more wide-ranging and esoteric nature" The new headquarters is in the record-shaped Capitol building on Vine Street.

John and Yoko's record is tentatively titled "Unfinished Music No 2—Life with the Lions."

Hassler to Speak To State Planners

NEENAH — Mayor Donald Hassler has been scheduled as one of the speakers for the Association of Wisconsin Planners' convention in Madison on May 2.

Hassler has been asked to speak on the organization of the planning function in local government and how to improve the relationship between planning and other city functions

Menasha Fire Station, Library Nearly Ready

MENASHA — The architect overseeing the city's two major construction projects said today both the new library and the north side fire substation should be completed about mid-May.

John Kurth, of John A. Kurth & Associates, Appleton, made the estimates as city officials were expressing displeasure with the pace of the two projects.

12 Men Waiting

Fire Chief Cornelius Rippl said he has been unable to get a "firm date" from the architects for the completion of the fire station. Rippl has 12 men on his duty roster at the downtown fire station waiting to move to the new facility, and a new pumper truck is waiting in St. Louis, Mo., and "can be delivered anytime," Rippl said. The $106,286 project was begun last September.

The fire chief said he had been told duct work on the heating and air conditioning system had held up the project. Kurt said this morning he doesn't consider the project to be delayed, and added that the duct work is being done now.

Rippl pointed out that the contracts were awarded without including a completion date. All the city had was an oral agreement that a Jan. 15 date would be the target, he recalled. Construction strikes early in both projects contributed to holding them up.

Library Delays

Suffering more acutely from the strikes has been the $592,500 library. Begun in December, 1967, it originally had been intended for completion by the end of 1968. At one point, there was talk of a moving day from the old library around Thanksgiving.

Now, Kurt and Mrs. Florence Wilterding, president of the library board, disagree whether the job has again been delayed, but both give similar estimates of the date the building now is considered likely to be ready.

Mrs. Wilterding said the job had been held up about two weeks because the wrong kind of floor tile had been sent in a recent shipment and had to be replaced. Kurth said this morning he was unaware of the error. He said the project is "going real well," and that wall-hung book shelves are being installed now, and have to be up before the tile is put down.

Mrs. Wilterding said since the shelves are suspended from the walls, the tile could be installed.

Mid-May Date

Until now, the library board had been planning for a moving date about the middle of this month. Kurth conceded that "moving day in the middle of April is out of the question," and said he would now set the date as "possibly mid-May."

Mrs. Wilterding complained that the job has been "delayed and delayed, and we're just getting a little impatient."

Construction Pace Points To Record

NEENAH — Boosted interest rates apparently are having little effect on new construction, as the building pace in both Neenah and Menasha is pushing toward new records.

Permits for the first quarter in Neenah totaled 42 new homes, compared to 27 new starts last year at this time.

Building is also on the upswing in Menasha with 10 permits being issued, compared to only four last year at the end of March. Last month's new construction in the county was valued at $910,231 and included 22 new homes.

Earl Page, Neenah's building inspector, was a bit stumped over the building boom in light of the higher costs.

Market's Sharp Drop Continues

Administration's Last Move on Monetary Restraint Blamed

NEW YORK (AP) — Investor concern over the administration's latest moves to tighten monetary restraints was cited as the big reason for the stock market's continued sharp decline early this afternoon.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off from the start and at noon it was off 9.09 points at 918.21.

Losses led gains by a bit better than 700 issues. Trading was moderately active.

The decline continued last week's downward trend, in which the Dow lost a total 8 18 points in the week's three trading days. The market was closed Monday in respect for the memory of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and again on Good Friday.

At Close Thursday

After the market closed last Thursday, the Federal Reserve moved to increase its discount rate to a 40-year high of 6 per cent from 5½ per cent. It also increased by $650 million the amount of money member banks will be required to keep idle in reserves.

Analysts said the rate increase had been expected and discounted to some extent by the market but that the reserve increase had come as somewhat of a surprise.

AP Average

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 2.4 at 332 1, with industrials off 4.8, rails off .8, and utilities off .4.

Steels were up except for Jones & Laughlin Steel which gained ¼. Motors were lower, with General Motors off a point. Rubber issues also were lower although Goodrich gained ⅛.

Aircrafts and electronics were lower. Utilities were mixed.

Control Data was off 2⅛ among higher-priced issues, and IBM was down 2½.

Conglomerate issues were off fractions generally. However, White Consolidated Industries gained ⅝.

Thirteen of the 20 most-active issues on the New York Stock Exchange were lower and 7 were higher.

Of the 20 most-active stocks on the American Stock Exchange, 18 were lower, and 2 were higher.

Neenah Firm Target of Legal Move

Warren Trying to Halt Its Sales Promotion Practices

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Action was started today in Winnebago County Circuit Court by Atty. Gen Robert Warren to halt some sales promotion practices of Vehicle Safety Prducts, Inc., Neenah.

The move against the company also is directed at Harleth A Johnson, Milwaukee, president and treasurer of the firm, and Wayne R. Wolfe, Neenah, vice president and secretary

The complaint contends that the sales promotion plan employed by the defendents is an illegal lottery and also constitutes a violation of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture's administrative referral selling code.

The complaint said that the defendents are engaged in the offering for sale, the sale and distribution of automobile stabilizers or safety control units which are designed to enable drivers to drive more safely and easily turn and stop their vehicles.

The investigation leading to the filing of the complaint was a joint effort of the Wisconsin Department of Justice and the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

A hearing has been set for April 25 on a temporary injunction pending final determination of the case.

Court Strengthens Redistricting Rule

Says States Must Apportion Anew With 'Precise Equality'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, tightening up today required states to justify any variance from exactly equal state legislative and U.S. congressional districts.

In a 6-3 decision, the court said states must make "good faith efforts to achieve precise mathematical equality" in the apportionment of these districts on the basis of population.

And, the ruling continued, "the state must justify each variance no matter how small"

The decision, given by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., disapproved the 1967 reapportionment of Missouri's congressional districts. He said "clearly, the population variances among the Missouri congressional districts were not unavoidable."

Toughens Rule

The decision is a toughening of the court's one-man one-vote rule that state legislatures must draw these districts in such a way that they contain equal numbers of people.

The court, in applying this rule in February 1964 to congressional districts, said they must be drawn with mathematical precision "as nearly as is practicable" so that one man's vote in a congressional election is worth as much as another's.

The judgment on the plan adopted by the Missouri State Legislature clarifies the cloudy phrase, "as nearly as practicable."

The Missouri plan showed a spread of 25,802 people from the largest to the smallest district. In percentage terms, the most populous district was 3.13 per cent above the mathematical ideal, and the least populous was 2.83 per cent below.

Prove Love for King by Clothing Naked, Feeding Hungry—Abernathy

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy says the nation should prove its love for Dr. Martin Luther King by "feeding the hungry, clothing the naked and housing the homeless."

"I say to President Nixon, to Senators and governors and to Congressmen and judges and all Americans: if you love Dr King, as you say, prove it."

Abernathy, who succeeded King as president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, called in his lieutenants today to chart strategy for the future after a series of marches in tribute to King a year after his death

Peace March

The challenge was issued by Abernathy after a two-mile march for peace through downtown Atlanta Sunday in memory of King, assassinated in Memphis, Tenn., April 4, 1968

Other weekend marches in tribute to King were held in Montgomery, Ala., and Milwaukee, Wis. About 2,000 persons were estimated to have marched in each of those cities.

Abernathy said nothing could keep him from speaking out as "minister to America," and he added "let us save America by ending the war in Vietnam."

Most of the 2,500 marchers in Atlanta carried signs protesting the war, including one that said "John Wilson Refuses to Kill." and another that said, "Want to hear a Good Joke" The Paris Peace Talks."

Among the marchers were two of King's children. Martin III, 12, and Yolanda, 14

The march was orderly

Soldiers, leaders of antiwar organizations and march organizers also spoke

Quit Worrying

Abernathy urged Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox to quit worrying about Communists and "be concerned about American lives."

He called on U.S. Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia to switch "from a budget of bombs and a program of death to the budget for people and the program for life" and said King "will forgive you for all the evils you have perpetuated upon black people through the years."

The final weekend tribute to King took place at the slain civil rights leader's grave, at which Abernathy placed a wreath.

Police called the Bridgeport fire "the city's worst fire disaster in memory." Most of the victims were trapped on the top floor of the 12-family frame house destroyed by the blaze. Four of the dead were children.

Five children and five adults who were attending a family gathering died when flames raced through a frame house in the Arkansas delta town of Oakwood Bayou.

Bergenthal Convicted of Murder; Trial to Determine Sanity Begins

MILWAUKEE (AP) — August K. Bergenthal was convicted Sunday of slaying a wealthy business associate with a pistol he said he had purchased for protection after viewing scenes of street violence on television.

The Circuit Court jury which convicted him of murder was told to reconvene today for a trial to determine whether he was sane at the time of the slaying. He had pleaded innocent, and innocent by reason of insanity.

Bergenthal, 47, who took the stand Saturday, faces a mandatory life term in prison on the murder conviction, but could be paroled in less than 12 years. If committed to a state mental institution, he could be discharged after a court hearing or on the recommendation of the hospital

Bergenthal had been a patient at a private Oconomowoc hospital since being returned to Milwaukee from California, where he surrendered to authorities the day after Russell D. L. Wirth, 62, was shot to death Sept. 20 in the Wirth's fashionable home.

Mrs. Wirth, 61, was wounded during what she described as a quarrel between her husband and Bergenthal.

An attempted murder charge also was filed against Bergenthal concerning the wounding of Mrs. Wirth, but he was found guilty early Sunday by the Circuit Court jury of a reduced charge of endangering safety by conduct regardless of life.

The jury of eight men and four women brought in its predawn verdicts after deliberating three hours, 35 minutes.

While testifying Saturday, Bergenthal discussed what he called the strain between the Bergenthal and Wirth families after control of the families' company was transferred to the Wirths by shareholders about 1940.

Father's Views

His father, he said, "grieved and became bitter."

Bergenthal said he hadn't visited the Wirth home for 10 years until the night of the shooting.

He said he carried a pistol he had purchased after watching television broadcasts of the violence surrounding last year's Democratic National Convention.

"I became alarmed at what I had seen, and I thought it would be wise to have a gun," he said

Can't Remember

Bergenthal said he could not clearly remember the events surrounding the Wirth shootings.

"I am not sure exactly what was said," he testified. "I think I said something to the effect 'I am going to have to shoot you.'"

Bergenthal described a struggle "There was a shot . . . I felt the strong impact of a body . . . I recall the shot . . . I couldn't see him"

He said he looked up, "and Mrs. Wirth seemed to be coming at me as you would see in a slow-motion shot in a motion picture"

Wirth was in charge of Universal Foods, the name given the former family company. Red Star Yeast, after the Wirths were given control.

Bergenthal asked to estimate his share of the company, estimated his net worth at $700,000 or more

NEA Bill Could 'Force' Boards Into Bargaining

Proposal Would Allow Teachers To Strike Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — School boards could be forced to engage in collective bargaining and teachers would be allowed to strike in some cases under a bill proposed today by the National Education Association.

An NEA spokesman said the bill, to be introduced soon in Congress, would legalize teacher strikes only under restricted circumstances. Court injunctions still could be issued in cases where such walkouts pose a danger to public health or safety.

The bill would require a school board to bargain with any organization representing the majority of professional employes in a school system.

A teacher organization applying to a school board for recognition as an exclusive bargaining agent could be challenged by a competing group. But the challenging organization would have to present a certified membership list including at least 30 per cent of the professional employes in the negotiating unit.

Where there is a question of the teachers' preference, a secret ballot election would be held to decide which organization represents them.

Instructors in elementary, secondary and higher education are covered by the proposal. Administrators would be excluded.

The bill would ban school board reprisals against teachers for striking.

Provisions for mediation and arbitration are included.

Secret Phone System

LONDON (AP) — The government has disclosed that secret telephone exchanges were built in the 1950s in Manchester, London, Birmingham and Glasgow. The exchanges, kept secret for defense purposes, are located undergrounds and have living accommodations for staff members, with emergency food supplies.

'Old Man Rivers' Checked; No Flooding Dangers as Yet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The widespread flooding which melting snow had been expected to produce in northwestern Wisconsin has yet to make an appearance.

Reports from river watchers along such Mississippi tributaries as the St. Croix and Chippewa included convictions Sunday night that water won't rise as high as the Weather Bureau predicted it might.

The bureau has been revising its forecast because alternating spells of warm and freezing weather have allowed the north country's unusually deep layer of winter snow to melt away much of its reserve, preventing the streams from having to accommodate too much runoff at once.

"We'll know a lot more by Tuesday," said Joseph Halverson, a St. Croix County deputy sheriff. "Another day of temperatures in the 50s, and we'll be more able to tell what the river plans to do."

Slowly Rising

The St. Croix at Hudson was rising slowly Sunday. A riverside road was inundated, and water stretched 70 feet inland across a park. But they were described as features which get flooded annually anyway.

Tourists in rows of cars flocked to the river's edge Sunday. But visitors seeking signs of flood came away generally disappointed. The stream was still about 12 feet below what it could be should the remaining north-country snow begin a rapid melt.

Another traditional troublemaker, the Willow River, a tributary of the St. Croix, was reported under control at New Richmond. The stream rose a foot overnight, then dropped back several inches after officials threw open flood-control gates at a New Richmond dam Sunday.

No Real Danger

Along the Chippewa River, where temporary levees have been thrown together since the Weather Bureau's March warning, signs of real danger were hard to find.

Ron Anderson, a Chippewa County deputy sheriff, said two small tributaries of the Chippewa were over their banks without harming any valuable property.

"The general talk around here about the predictions," he said, "is that they don't think we're going to get it that bad because it's been freezing and melting in spells."

In Cadott, where "it seems the Yellow River always floods," levee work is expected to keep the stream in bounds, he said.

Even the Mississippi itself, above its junction with the Minnesota River, has yet to cause concern.

Carl Jacobson, a Buffalo County deputy who keeps track of river conditions with his ham-radio operation, said two of his county's most vulnerable communities are showing more confidence than ever before in their long river-fighting history.

Spend $60,000

"Cochrane, having only 450 residents, has spent about $60,000 on a half-mile levee "with pumps to handle almost anything, even if the Mississippi gets as high as it's supposed to" at nearby Winona, Minn., Jacobson said.

The river at Winona was still eight feet and more short of levee rims during the weekend. Cochrane's defense held two years ago when the Mississippi reached an 18-foot level at Winona, and the river isn't expected to exceed that this spring.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles has announced plans to fly over the Mississippi valley Tuesday to look at flood preparations.

Robbed Kneeling Woman

Special Easter Prayer Said for Church Thief

MIAMI (AP) — There was a special Easter prayer service for a thief at St. Hugh's Catholic Church Sunday—the thief who robbed Sophia Larsen as she knelt in solitary Lenten prayer.

"We asked God to be merciful to this person," said Larry Dries, a layman who led the 25-minute service.

"It was a very small thing," the Rev. James Kiley said. "Just a few of the neighbors got together and figured they'd like to pray for the guy that robbed her. It fits in very nicely with the story of the Good Thief—you know, the whole story of Christ's crucifixion."

"It was an effort to show true Christian charity in terms of asking that God have some consideration for this person that did this thing," said Dries, a counseling psychologist for the Veterans Administration.

"We prayed for all mankind to begin with, but he was our prime reason for being there."

Mrs. Larsen, 57, was praying alone in the church the afternoon of March 28, when she heard a voice behind her. The voice said: "Don't move, don't say anything, just sit quiet and still."

Two hands appeared from behind. One pointed a pistol at Mrs. Larsen's face and the other took $14 from her purse.

"This is the sort of thing that can frighten people into feeling it's not safe to be there," Dries said. "That's wrong."

"Perhaps the greatest crime is not so much the robbery as the fact that the church was empty except for Mrs. Larsen," said Beverlee McLaughen, another parishioner.

"If the place had been crowded, as it should have been in the Lenten season, it wouldn't have happened."

Dries said the special Easter Sunday service attracted 28 people who contributed $28.

"We're going to give the money to the lady and my understanding is that she is going to give it to some charity," he said.

"I don't know the lady herself. I have never seen her."

With the largest standard V8 in Chevy's field. A 327-cubic-inch 235-horsepower job that thrives on regular gas.

With four big computer-selected coil springs that leave bumps where they belong. On the road.

With features like our Anti-Theft Lock System. When you lock the ignition on a '69 Chevy, you lock the steering wheel and transmission lever as well.

And if you think pulling a trailer or a boat is a drag, you haven't pulled one with Chevrolet's Turbo Hydra-matic. This three-range transmission is now available with most Chevy engines.

Let your Chevy dealer show you what it takes to be first. Then you'll know why the competition has to play our game.

Follow the leader.

'21st Century' Leaves TV Scene This Season

Replacement Rather Than Sudden Death; New 'Challenge' to Have Wider Scope

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Time flies for television: "The 21st Century" will disappear after only three seasons.

The CBS series of that name will be terminated at the end of this season, but not from the usual cause of TV death.

The show's ratings actually have held pretty well, considering that it arrives early Sunday evenings, just outside of prime time, and for the early part each season was occasionally washed by an overlong football game.

"The 21st Century" will be displaced the first of next season by a new series called "Challenge". Its executive producer, Burton Benjamin, thinks the new title will give his staff more scope.

Center on People

The present series concentrates on the broader aspects—among this season's subjects have been the new medicine, the new biology, transportation changes, oceanography and such Next year, it can give closeups of the people making the new world.

Presumably Benjamin's half-hour documentary next Thursday night—"Volcano: An Island is Born"—would have been one of the forthcoming instead of a special. It will show an island rising from the sea after an eruption from an undersea volcano

Benjamin, a man of broad enthusiasms and a reporter's curiosity, is the senior executive producer of CBS News with a string of "CBS Reports" to his credit. He spent some chilly months during World War II on a Coast Guard weathership near Iceland, which indirectly led to the volcano documentary.

Interested in Ireland

"I've been interested in anything to do with Iceland since the war," he said. "So when I read about the volcano and the eruption and the emergence of the island, I wondered if by any chance anybody had made some film of it."

It turned out that somebody had, and by good fortune it was a professional. The film was excellent. In addition, Burton learned, the island of volcanic residues was of special interest to scientists because over the past six years plant life—lichens and moss—have begun to appear Birds and a few adventurous seals now are moving in.

"Some of them believe that, for the first time, they can see how life started on the earth itself," the producer said.

Playwright Should Have Stayed Home

BY WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — Maxine Fleischman is a native of Montreal who lives in a Quebec ski lodge with a husband, three children, three dogs and an unfortunate compulsion to write a play for off-Broadway.

The result of that determination is "God Bless You, Harold Fineberg," which wheezed onto the stage of the Actors Playhouse in Greenwich Village last week.

Miss Fleischman seems to want to do a comedy about an average woman trying "to find herself in an existentialist sense," plus some Pirandello touches.

Her humor attempts are leaden, but at that are a notch or so above her mawkish and muddled efforts to find some meaning.

Sherwood Arthur is supposed to have directed the uncertain cast that includes Hy Anzell, Sylvia Gassell, Marty Greene and Natalie Priest. A curdled red backdrop described by someone as a sunset was ascribed to Richard Fuhrman.

Divorce Granted To Lana Turner

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actress Lana Turner has been granted a divorce from her sixth husband, businessman Robert P. Eaton, whom she married in June 1965.

She alleged that he caused her "tremendous anxiety and nervous tension" by seldom showing up at home and telling her it was "none of my business" where he had been. They were childless.

Miss Turner's previous husbands were Artie Shaw, bandleader; Stephen Crane, restaurant owner; Bob Topping, heir to a tin plate fortune; Lex Barker, actor, and Fred May, a sportsman.

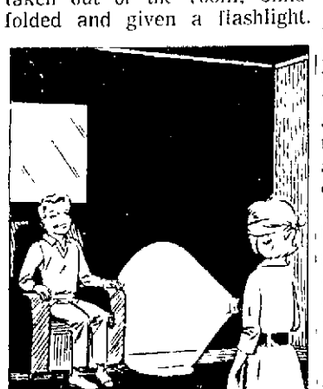
Probe With a Flashlight to Win at 'Seek and Shine'

BY CAPPY DICK

A flashlight and a big handkerchief to use as a blindfold are the necessary equipment for a party game called "Shine and seek." Here's how to play it:

The person who is "It" is taken out of the room, blindfolded and given a flashlight.



"It" Is Blindfolded

All the other players also leave the room, except one who remains and takes a position somewhere in the room, sitting in a chair or standing in a corner The lights in the room are turned off

"It" is led back into the darkened room and, at a signal, must turn on the flashlight and aim the beam at the spot where he believes the one guest is stationed He is not allowed to move the beam of the light once he has aimed it.

All the other guests return to the darkened room. The blindfold is removed from "It" while the flashlight is still aimed. If the light beam reveals part or all of the figure of the guest in the room, "It" has succeeded and another player must be chosen to be "It".

On the other hand, if the beam of light fails to reveal the guest (as in the illustration above) "It" must continue with another guest serving as the hidden player.

'View From Space' Rerun Tops in Color

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11) — The View From Space is rerun and remains a joy for color set owners during an orbital trip around the earth via film and still pictures taken during space flights aid air research missions. There are some side trips explaining how the magnificent views we see can be applicable to daily life. Astronauts Frank Borman, James Lovell, Jr., William Anders and Edwin Scott Jr., participate, along with a variety of scientists. George C. Scott narrates his third program in this Man and His Universe series.

* * *

7-8 (Channel 5) — All things considered, any program that can preempt the highly popular Laugh-In figures to be a good one and that sums up the special titled Portrait of Petula, or Petula Clark. It is not totally unique, but a rarity among musicals in that it was shot on location in London, Paris, New York, and beautiful downtown Burbank. Her guests include Andy Williams, jazz guitarist Sacha Distel and Ron Moody, who has been nominated for an Oscar for his role of Fagin in "Oliver."

* * *

6:30-7 (Channel 5) — I Dream of Jeannie may look like a rerun, its script is so filled with familiar circumstances and dialogue, but it is not. Barbara Eden plays the dual role again with the mod sister trying to steal Tony from her mad twin.

* * *

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — Festus gets an instant family on Gunsmoke. The bewhiskered bachelor is on hand when an outlaw gang, running from Marshal Dillon, descends on a widow's ranch for a rest. Festus plays the lady's husband to protect her and her brood from the gang.

* * *

8-8:30 (Channel 2) — When Ken Berry replaced Andy Griffith and the show's title switched to Mayberry R. F. D., the producers figured they would grab a little rating insurance by using Andy as a guest just after it debuted. That program is rerun tonight with Andy appearing to talk Sam Jones into hiring a couple of ex-convicts as farm workers, to give them a fresh start.

* * *

8-9 (Channel 11) — William Windom is only slightly brilliant as the guest star on The Outcasts. He is the essence of evil as a white man who disguises himself as a black killer, El Diablo Negro. He has a reputation for indiscriminately killing Indians, which makes a target for an Apache group

* * *

8:30-9 (Channel 2) — Of all things that wholesome, healthy Kathy Garver has no resemblence to, it is the hippie way of life On Family Affair tonight she decides she would like to see how hippies live and asks Uncle Bill if she can spend a weekend with the Flower Children.

* * *

9-10 (Channel 11) — The Big Valley has a rough but enjoyable episode titled "The Town With No Exit." The town is of the ghost variety, occupied by five people who make it look like a mental institution. When Heath stops there, he is grabbed, sadistically treated, given a trial and sentenced to be hanged.

* * *

5 New Managers Make Debuts Today, Tuesday

1 Baseball Opener Set For Tonight

by ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Major league baseball, troubled by a heated players pension dispute much of the winter, was poised today to launch a new season with four new clubs, five rookie managers, a new commissioner and opening games at Washington, Cincinnati and Atlanta.

The Washington Senators, who lured Ted Williams out of baseball retirement to take over as manager, faced the New York Yankees in the nation's capital. President Nixon was expected to toss out the first ball in one of two afternoon games.

Cincinnati was host to the Los Angeles Dodgers in the other daylight opener.

The Atlanta Braves clash tonight with the San Francisco Gants, whose new Manager Clyde King has installed Willie Mays in the leadoff spot for the first time in the center fielder's illustrious career.

Others Open Tuesday

All other teams in both leagues rip the lid off their season Tuesday. Minnesota is at Kansas City, Cleveland at Detroit and Boston at Baltimore in day games and Seattle at California and Chicago at Oakland at night in the American League.

Tuesday's National League action finds Montreal at New York, Philadelphia at Chicago in daylight affairs and Pittsburgh at St. Louis, Houston at San Diego and the Giants at Atlanta again at night.

Besides Williams and King, the rookie big league managers are Billy Martin at Minnesota, Joe Schultz at Seattle and Preston Gomez at San Diego.

Three other skippers, though not new on the managerial scene, will be making their debuts with new clubs, including Gene Mauch at Montreal, Hank Bauer at Oakland and Joe Gordon at Kansas City.

The new commissioner is Bowie Kuhn, successor to Gen. William D. Eckert.

There's something else new this season. Both leagues have adapted East and West divisional setups. Division winners will collide in postseason playoffs to determine the World Series opponents.

Get Together

Only a month ago, the clubs and players finally got together in their winter-long dispute over the player pension program. The dispute delayed the opening of full-scale spring training workouts.

President Nixon, who already has made some changes in Washington, hoped to add another today by sparking the Senators to their first presidential triumph in seven years. His only previous appearance was as vice president and substitute for the late President Eisenhower in 1959. The Senators won that one.

After Mr. Nixon's performance, Manager Williams, whose five-year contract involved $1.2 million, planned to send Camilo Pascual, 13-12 last year and loser in the 1968 opener, against Yankee ace Mel Stottlemyre, 21-12.

Cincinnati, oldest team in professional baseball, called on young Gary Nolan, 9-4, to pitch against Dodger veteran Don Drysdale, 14-12.

San Francisco's ace, Juan Marichal, 26-9, will go against Pat Jarvis 16-12, at Atlanta tonight. The Braves will be seeking their first home opener since they moved from Milwaukee at Atlanta in 1966.

Siebert Gets Win

Indians Blank Expos Before 5,414 Chilled Fans in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Chicago White Sox continued their two-year old losing habit in Milwaukee, but another American League team, the Cleveland Indians, found the right recipe.

The White Sox fell to their cross-town rivals, the Chicago Cubs, 4-1 Saturday in the first of three major league baseball exhibitions to be played in Milwaukee County Stadium this year.

On Sunday, Cleveland crushed the Montreal Expos 8-0, using two four-run innings to get the job done.

Cleveland wasted little time finding the answer to oMntreal, a National League expansion team.

With Dan McGinn on the mound, the Indians erupted for four runs in the third inning, then clobbered Steven Shea for a similar amount in the fourth.

Sonny Siebert, the winning pitcher started the uprising in the third when he singled with one away. Larry Brown's two-bagger, singles by Rich Scheinblum and Jose Azcue, and a ground out by Tony Horton, gave Cleveland more than enough.

But the Tribe came back the very next inning on Vern Fuller's opening double, an error, singles by Chuck Hinton and Brown and a bases-loaded walk to Horton.

Sunday's crowd numbered just 5,414, as the temperature rose to only 44 degrees.

One more exhibition remains on the 14-game Milwaukee slate. The Minnesota Twins take on the San Francisco Giants May 8.

The White Sox return to County Stadium April 23 in a regular season contest against the California Angels.

Sox Win Third Of Four Outings Against Cubs

American Leaguers Score Twice in 9th For 5-3 Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — The White Sox won the all-Chicago spring series Sunday, beating the Cubs 5 to 3 for their third victory in four games between the two clubs.

A Wrigley Field crowd of 10,723 watched the White Sox take a two run lead in the second on run-making singles by Sandy Alomar and winning pitcher Sammy Ellis.

Catcher Duane Josephson's double produced the South Siders third run in the third off loser Bill Hands.

Ellis, beating the Cubs a second time within five days, pitched perfect baseball for the first five innings.

Then Ron Santo stroked his seventh spring homer for the Cubs' first hit. It was a drive into the left field bleachers.

Singles by Josephson — his third straight hit, Ken Berry and Aparicio off Phil Regan in the ninth gave the White Sox the two insurance runs they needed to withstand a Cub last gasp rally. The Cubs got two runs off Wilbur Wood on singles by Billy Williams, Santo and Jim Hickman.

Exhibition Honors Go To Orioles

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The exhibition season was over and they were playing for keeps today in the major leagues. The Baltimore Orioles wound up with the best exhibition record with 19 victories and five defeats, but the Boston Red Sox may have the most to cheer about.

The Red Sox, who were only 11-15 in the citrus campaign, found out that Tony Conigliaro may be ready for a successful comeback. The outfielder, beaned in 1967 and out all of last season, hit his fourth home run and drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly Sunday in an 8-5 loss to Houston.

The Philadelphia Phillies and the San Francisco Giants both displayed an abundance of power in Sunday's exhibition finales. The Phillies collected 11 hits and downed Baltimore 5-0. The Giants, with Willie McCovey blasting a three-run homer, routed the New York Yankees 16-9.

The National League defending champion St. Louis Cardinals finished 16-9 with a 6-5 verdict over Kansas City. World champion Detroit closed at 9-17 by losing to Cincinnati 5-3

Pittsburgh bested Washington 5-2, Cleveland blanked Montreal 8-0, the New York Mets bombed Minnesota 12-4 and were leading 5-1 when their second game was called after 4½ innings, the Chicago White Sox tripped their cross-town rivals, the Chicago Cubs, 5-3 for the third time in four games.

In other closing games, Richmond of the International League whipped Atlanta 3-1, San Diego jumped on Steve Barber for six first inning runs and beat Seattle 8-2 before losing a 4-3 game in their doubleheader nightcap, and Oakland nipped California 8-6 in 12 innings.

Unseld Picked as 'Rookie of Year'

NEW YORK (AP) — Westley Unseld, who already has won the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Players award, was named the Rookie of the Year today, easily beating out Elvin Hayes.

Unseld, the pivot man who led the Bullets to the Eastern Division title during the regular season, polled 53 votes from sportswriters and sportscasters while Hayes attracted only 25.

"I can only thank my teammates and coach for making it possible for me to win these awards," Unseld said.

The graduate of Louisville was the second best rebounder in the NBA with 1,491 rebounds, averaging 18.2 a game, and scored 13.8 points per contest. Hayes of San Diego was the league's top scorer with a 28.4 average and finished fourth in rebounding.

Standout at Penn State

Packers Sign Dave Bradley

Post-Crescent News Service

Bradley, 6-foot-4 and 245 pounds, is the first selection to be officially revealed as signed for 1969 action.

Of ideal dimensions for either assignment, he will be tried at both guard and tackle, Bengtson has indicated. The 22-year-old Burnham, Pa., native carries the "can't miss" label.

Transferred to Tackle

Bradley, a principal in No.. 2-ranked Penn State's last minute victory over Kansas in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day, played guard his sophomore and junior years and was transferred to tackle by Coach Joe Paterno his senior year.

A highly durable athlete, he was in on 750 of the Nittany Lions' 839 offensive plays as a junior. Rated an excellent pass-blocker by pro scouts, Bradley admits, "I did all right in college with it, but I guess there are tricks you have to learn in the pros."

Enthusiastic over the prospect of becoming a Packer, Bradley noted at the time of his selection, "I don't think I could have picked a better team if I'd had my own choice."

An accounting major and the father of a one-year-old son, David Bradley II, he played in three post-season games. In addition to the Orange Bowl, he appeared in the American Bowl and the East-West Shrine game.

Bradley is the second Penn State product to be drafted among the top three by the Packers in recent seasons, the other is linebacker Dave Robinson, the Pack's top choice in the 1963 draft.

Report Reeves May Sell His Rams Interest

Charles Luckman Reported Close To Deal for Team

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams, who have reportedly had front office squabbles for years, may soon be owned by the man who designed the Space Center in Houston.

Charles Luckman, one of the west's leading architects, is reportedly dealing for Ram President Daniel F. Reeves' 51 per cent controlling interest in the National Football League team.

If Reeves sells, it would end a major era he started in 1946 by moving the world champion Rams from Cleveland into an area uninhabitated by any major professional teams.

Reeves told The Associated Press Sunday night that an immediate sale "is possible but far from conclusion."

Jeff Wildenberg Sets High Jump Record in Madison West Relays

MADISON — Kimberly High School finished a close second in the 48-school Class B Madison West Relays at the University of Wisconsin Memorial Building Saturday.

The Papermakers, who had taken championships in the event in 1960 and 1961, finished with 19 points to rank just behind champion Cedarburg, which totaled 22½ points. Waupaca tallied three points to wind up in a 4-way tie for 13th place.

Three Fox Cities area teams failed to score in the meet, which was divided into Class A (large) and Class B (small) schools. Omro was shut out in B, as were Menasha and Neenah in A.

Kimberly won three events — the high jump, the 880 relay, and the sprint medley.

Senior Jeff Wildenberg set a meet record in the high jump by clearing 6 feet, 3 inches The former record of 6-2½ held by Homestead's Steve Schwandt had stood for four years. Waupaca's John Holly leaped 6-0 to gain a 3-way tie for runnerup.

Tom Thiel, Steve DuPont, Steve Van Hout and Kim Koehn combined to give Kimberly victory in the sprint medley. The quartet paced off a 3:43.7 to beat McFarland, which registered the next best clocking of 3:45.5.

Van Hout and DuPont were also members of the Papermakers' winning relay unit, along with Dennis Jansen and Tim VanderVelden. The foursome triumphed with a 1:36.1 clocking, nine-tenths of a second faster than a Monroe unit.

The three first places gave Kimberly 18 of its points. Jansen accounted for the remaining point by posting a fifth place in the 60-yard dash.

Racine Case took the 41-school Class A title, edging Beloit by a 20-18 margin. The star of the Class A division was Watertown's Glenn Herold, who ran the fastest prep mile in state history as he won in 4:15 3.

Manitowoc, which has dominated early-season events in the Fox Valley area, was one of 16 teams failing to score in Class A.

Needs 5 Extra Holes

Littler Edges Trio for 'Greensboro' Crown

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)— Some people call Gene Littler golf's mechanical man. Quiet, soft - spoken, seldom spectacular, all he does is win money and tournaments in a generally unobtrusive manner.

When he won a four-man sudden death playoff on the fifth extra hole of the $160,000 Greater Greensboro Open Tournament Sunday he padded his bulging 1969 bankroll by $32,000. He's the year's top money winner at $86,000 and the first man in 14 tournaments this year to win twice. He took the Phoenix Open in February.

The 38-year-old Littler finished with 274 over 72 holes, 10 under par, and tied with PGA champion Julius Boros, young slugger Tom Weiskopf and Orville Moody.

Weiskopf, out of the Army a month after a five-month hitch, dropped out on the first extra hole, the 15th, with a bogey five.

Meanwhile, Littler, the 49-year-old Boros and Moody matched pars through the 18th and then had to trek back to the 15th to start another go-round before national television cameras.

Littler knocked in a 12-foot birdie putt on no. 15, his fourth birdie in six visits there, to take the prize.

Blues Also Wrap Up Playoff

Montreal, Boston in Finals

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It will be Montreal against Boston and St. Louis against somebody in the National Hockey League's East and West Division Stanley Cup final playoffs.

The Canadiens, Bruins and Blues all completed four-game sweeps of first round Cup opponents Sunday while the Los Angeles Kings knocked off Oakland to knot the other series at two games each.

Montreal held off a furious New York rally and beat the Rangers 4-3. Boston nipped Toronto 3-2 to finish off the Maple Leafs and moments afterwards, Toronto President Stafford Smythe finished off Manager-Coach Punch Imlach, by firing him. St. Louis downed Philadelphia 4-1 and Los Angeles took Oakland 4-2.

Montreal opened a 4-0 lead against the Rangers with Dick Duff, Jacques Lemaire, Henri Richard and Yvan Cournoyer scoring against Gilles Villemure, who replaced regular goalie Ed Giacomin.

New York broke through against Rogatien Vachon, who took over when Montreal's netminder, Gump Worsley, came up with a sore knee, with quick goals by Dave Balon and Rod Gilbert and added another by Don Marshall in the third period, but it was not enough.

It marked Montreal's third playoff sweep in the last four series. The Canadiens won 12 of 13 playoff games to capture the Cup last year.

Smythe lowered the boom on Imlach two minutes after the Bruins eliminated Toronto. It was Derek Sanderson of the Bruins, who lowered the boom on the Maple Leafs.

Sanderson scored two goals, one while killing a Boston penalty, to lead the Bruins' attack. Phil Esposito's sixth playoff goal was Boston's other score. Ron Ellis and Dave Keon scored for the Leafs.

St. Louis got the jump on Philadelphia with three goals in the first five minutes and beat the Flyers.

Opened Scoring

Frank St. Marseille opened the scoring with the game just 52 seconds old and then Terry Crisp and Jim Roberts connected 14 seconds apart for the quick 3-10 Blues' lead.

Tim Ecceltone made it 4-0 for St Louis before Garry Peters scored for Philadelphia, ruining goalie Jacques Plante's chances for a record-tying third straight playoff shutout.

Los Angeles evened up its series with Oakland as three defenseman pitched in with goals Bill White, Larry Cahan and Brent Hughes all clicked for the Kings after Earl Ingarfield had given Oakland the early edge

Howie Menard scored LA's other goal and Ted Hampson hit for the Seals. The series resumed Wednesday in Oakland

Celtics Showing No Signs of Willingness To Give Up Throne

Boston Stops Knicks, 108-100; Hawks, LA Post Important Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers rested today with visions of a crown on their heads while the Atlanta Hawks prepared for another fitting tonight.

But hold everything because the Boston Celtics, present kings of the National Basketball Association, appear to have little intention of abdicating.

The aging Celtics, who won the NBA title last year and then finished a disappointing fourth in the Eastern Division this season, look ready for another coronation now that the playoffs are underway. After winning the division semifinal series in five games from Philadelphia, Boston opened the division final with an impressive 108-100 victory over the red-hot New York Knicks in a nationally-televised game Sunday in New York.

The winner of that best-of-7 series, which resumes Wednesday night in Boston, meets the West winner.

Await Winner

The Lakers took a big step in that direction by winning their fourth straight from San Francisco, 118-78, Saturday night to win their semifinal set and now await the victor in the Atlanta-San Diego series.

Atlanta, after a 112-101 triumph Sunday in Atlanta for a 3-2 lead, can wrap up its series tonight in San Diego, where the Hawks have not won this season.

The Celtics moved to a 70-55 lead in the third period against the Knicks, who came off a surprising four-game sweep over Baltimore in their semifinal series. Although New York made several desperate rushes in the final period, cutting the margin to 94-90 and then 98-94, Boston with its playoff saavy always had the answer.

Combine for 46

Veterans John Havlicek and Bailey Howell, who each had seven points in the final 12 minutes to hold off New York, finished with 25 and 21, respectively. Walt Frazier had 34 for New York.

Atlanta, led by Joe Caldwell and Lou Hudson, took a 53-50 halftime lead, increased it to 84-77 after three periods and then poured it on for a 95-78 spread. Caldwell totaled 26 points and Hudson 20 for the Hawks. Elvin Hayes had 27 for the Rockets.

Expo Stadium Nearly Ready

Renovated Park to Seat 30,000 for April 14 Opener

MONTREAL (AP)—Reconstruction of Jarry Park, home of Montreal Expos of baseball's National League, has almost been completed.

The seats down the left field line remain to be installed and the dressing rooms have not yet been painted, but officials are confident that everything will be ready for the new baseball team's home opener, scheduled for April 14.

The grass that was planted in the infield and outfield last year has taken well, and the pitcher's mound has held up under the winter's heavy snowfall.

The scoreboard has been erected and the light stands are up in preparation for opening day.

The seating capacity of the renovated stadium will be about 30,000.

Carol Post Crashes 603 National Series

A national honor count and a 7-10 split cleanup highlighted the action in the Central Fox Valley Women's Bowling Association Tournament over the weekend

Mrs. Carol Post, 210 W. Brewster St., Appleton banged a 603 national honor set as she took over the lead in the Class B singles event.

Mrs. Eckes tipped the 7-pin which came off the sideboard, rolled across the alley and knocked over the 10-pin.

63rd Hit in Area

For Mrs. Post, it was her first national set of the season and the third recorded in the tournament to date. It was the 63rd rolled by women on Fox Cities and area lanes this season. Carol was competing in the doubles and singles event at Neenah's Lakeroad Lanes when she hit the national set Carol's games included 185, 220 and 198 for the 603 total. With 17 pins handicap per game, Mrs Post finished with a 654 count, 36 pins ahead of Class B runnerup Carol Boyle.

In other weekend action, Brandt's Beer and Liquor, Kaukauna, took over fourth place in Class B with a 2,643 count. In Class C, Elm Tree Inn, of Winneconne, placed fourth with 2,538.

NBA Draft Opens

Bucks Expected to Choose Forward in Second Round

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The first-round draft choice of the Milwaukee Bucks was no secret today, but the second round pick was anyone's guess.

The National Basketball Association held its annual college draft and the Bucks, through virtue of finishing last in the Eastern Division and first in a coin toss, got the first pick.

The Bucks had already announced they would choose 7-foot-1 Lew Alcindor, whom they signed last week for a reported $1.4 million.

Coach Larry Costello said the team's second round draft choice probably would be a high-scoring forward, although it would depend on whom the other teams select. Milwaukee's second-round pick would be the 16th player chosen, counting Alcindor.

In Good Shape

"But, if the forward isn't around on the second round, we won't take a forward just for the sake of taking a forward," Costello said "We're in good shape at guard, but we can use a young guard to bring along"

Among those the Bucks were interested in for the forward spot are Simmie Hill of West Texas State; Rich Jones, Memphis State; Ken Spain, Houston; Bob Portman and Wally Anderzunas, Creighton, and Terry Driscoll, Boston College.

The top guard candidates included Jo Jo White of Kansas and Lucius Allen, Alcindor's teammate at UCLA.

Also sure to be grabbed in an early round was George Thompson, Marquette University star. The Bucks indicated interest in Thompson if he were not taken in the first two rounds.

The remaining 10 rounds are to be held May 7 in New York.

Lakers Climax Comeback With 118-78 Rout of Warriors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Sometimes," said Wilt Chamberlain when it was all over, "a good start go down the drain. It makes you realize not only along the matters is running."

The Los Angeles Lakers started out doing the only thing that could put the game out of reach when they outgot off about 5-0 in the San Francisco Warrior 118-78 Saturday night as the Lakers capped a four game sweep that gave them the victory in the National Basketball Association playoff series after losing the first two games.

The Lakers now play the winner of the series between the Atlanta Hawks and the San Diego Rockets for the Western Division crown and the chance to play the Eastern Division winner for the NBA championship.

The Lakers held the Warriors to their second lowest point total in their history as the home team hit on only 27.9 per cent of its shots.

West Hits 29

Los Angeles howitzer [illegible] Jerry West's 29 points [illegible] trouble putting the ball in the west coast's end of the game basket. They led 61-38 at halftime and increased the lead from there.

The Lakers should win it all if Wilt plays like he did against me," Warrior center Nate Thurmond said of Chamberlain. "Elgin Baylor will get better and West can't get any better.

Baylor still is having trouble going to the basket but Bill Hewitt has taken up the scoring slack with some help from Mel Counts and Tom Hawkins.

Laker Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff praised his club's defense Saturday night and was hopeful about its chances in the rest of the playoffs.

"If we play the way we are capable of playing," he said, "we can beat any team in basketball. If we play poorly, any team in basketball can beat us."

The Warriors had a healthy Jeff Mullins back in the line up for the first time since he injured his left knee in the third playoff game although Mullins led the club with 21 points, his [illegible] didn't seem otherwise

Wills Says He's Available For Baseball Manager Post

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Shortstop Maury Wills said Sunday he is still available if anyone wants him as a baseball club manager, but that he is no longer knocking at any doors.

"If they feel they want me," he said, "they know how to get hold of me. It's up to them."

Wills, 36, who stole a record 104 bases in 1962, said he plans to "give it 100 per cent" as a player with the Montreal Expos, but is giving up any attempt to become the first Negro manager of a major league team.

"It took me eight and a half years of struggling, heartbreak and disappointment through the minors to make it up here," the former Los Angeles Dodgers star said. "I'm not going to do the same thing trying to get to manage."

"So I'm going to do the best job I can for the Expos," he said. He was in Milwaukee with the Montreal expansion team for an exhibition game Sunday, which the Expos lost to the Cleveland Indians 8-0.

"Not one of the four expansion clubs approached me" about a managerial assignment, Wills said. "Obviously, not one is interested."

Wills said he is looking forward to national development of a chain of dry cleaning stores and laundromats he has helped start in Los Angeles.

"I'm going to go national with them, and give our franchises mostly in black areas," he said. "They're called the 'Maury Wills Stolen Base Cleaners'."

Kobayashi of Japan Keeps World Title

TOKYO (AP) — Hiroshi Kobayashi of Japan still was world junior lightweight champion today after he scored a split decision triumph Sunday night over Antonio Amaya of Panama.

There were no knockdowns in the 15-round fight.

Amaya, No. 2 world contender, constantly shot fast lefts at the champion but most of them were blocked. He managed to open a cut next to Kobayashi's left eye in the 10th round, and blood from the cut spattered the trunks of both fighters.

Kobayashi weighed 128¾ and Amaya 127½.

Referee Kotoyama scored the fight 72-71 for Kobayashi, judge Hiroyuki Tazaki 72-69 for the champion, and The Associated Press card had it 73-69 for Kobayashi. However, judge Takeo Ugo scored 74-72 for Amaya.

Virginia Kealer Rolls 703 Series In ABC Tourney

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Elmer Breeden of Manassas, Va., took over fourth place in regular singles standings of the annual American Bowling Congress tournament Sunday with a 703 series.

Breeden also had 1,914 to move into a sixth-place tie with Paul Moore, Warren, Mich., in regular all-events.

Denver Downs Oaks, Squares Playoff Series

OAKLAND (AP)—The American Basketball Association's Western Division semifinal playoff series moves to Denver Tuesday night, following the Rockets' 122-119 victory over Oakland Sunday to even the best-of-7 set 1-1.

The Oaks, hitting on 50 per cent of their shots from the floor, blitzed the Rockets 129-99 when the series opened her Saturday night.

New Orleans took a 129-196 home decision from Dallas Saturday night and the teams meet tonight in New Orleans in their second game of a best-of-7 Western semifinal series.

Minnesota will be at Miami tonight for the first game of their Eastern Division series. Indiana and Kentucky start their best-of-7 set Tuesday evening.

Failure to Sign Lew Makes It Difficult for ABA, Declares Barry

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Rick Barry, an American Basketball star, says failure of the league to sign Lew Alcindor "has made it difficult for us."

Barry, interviewed by a Denver radio station Sunday night, said the league had relied heavily on Alcindor's signing.

"I'd be kidding myself if I said it didn't make any difference," Barry said. "But we still can make it."

Imlach Fired 'Two Minutes' After NHL Loss

Axe Falls Swiftly on General Manager, Coach of Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — The axe that hung ever so low over Punch Imlach's head all during the National Hockey League season, fell swiftly on the veteran Toronto genera manager and coach Sunday night after the Leafs absorbed their fourth straight beating from Boston in the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

Stafford Smythe, president of the hockey team, marched into the press room at Maple Leaf Gardens two minutes after the game and said, "he's through altogether."

Smythe, who had called Imlach on the carpet early in the season when the Leafs were in the NHL East Division cellar, said he fired Imlach moments after the game ended.

"I told him two minutes ago," Smythe said. "I said, 'it's the end of the Imlach era.'"

4 Stanley Cups

It was an era that brought four Stanley Cups in 11 seasons and playoff finishes in 10 of those seasons. The Leafs missed the playoffs for the first time under Imlach last year.

There were rumblings that Imlach was in trouble then and they increased when the Leafs started slowly this season. In December, Imlach was called before the hockey committee of Maple Leaf Gardens. He assured Smythe and the committee that the team would make the playoffs and it did.

Still, Smythe was not satisfied. He had often suggested that Imlach drop one of his two jobs but Punch always refused, saying that he would hold both jobs or neither.

Imlach said he knew he was finished before Smythe told him. "But I will have something more to say about that later. I'm going to reserve my judgment until I'm less emotionally upset."

Smythe named John McLellan, coach of the Tulsa Oilers of the Central League as the Leafs' new coach and scout Jim Gregory as the new general manager.

Age No Factor in Playoffs, Declares Celtics' Howell

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — When you get to be 32, 33, 34, 35 years old, playing 82 games in the National Basketball Association, it's a long, long season.

"During the season, age is a problem," said 32-year-old Bailey Howell, "but during the playoffs, age is no factor. You can see the end."

The Celtics, whose first eight men are all more than 28 with five topping 30, certainly are proving it.

Playing like a bunch of youngsters with the experience of age, the Celts ran through their Eastern Division semifinal series against favored Philadelphia in five games and opened the division final Sunday with an impressive 108-100 victory over the young and hopeful New York Knicks.

Player-coach Bill Russell, 35, just shrugs off old age and the idea of Boston's special prowess in the playoffs. "We don't even talk about it," he says.

Appear Revitalized

But it's there. It must be because the Celtics, who finished a dragging fourth during the regular season after winning the NBA title last year, appear revitalized.

They went into Sunday's nationally televised game before 19,500 screaming partisan New York fans with only one victory in seven regular season games against the Knicks, a team coming off a four-game semifinal sweep over first-place Baltimore.

Boston took a 70-55 lead in the third quarter, only to have the Knicks pull within 94-90 and then 98-94 on the shooting of Walt Frazier, who totaled 34 points. But here, when the old Celts should tire, instead Howell, John Havlicek, 29, and former Knick Emmette Bryant, 30, took them out of danger.

"Against a lot of clubs not as great as Boston or with their experience, we would have won," added Willis Reed, who scored 24 points for the Knicks.

Managers Optimistic

Al Lopez Says Chisox Have Chance; Cards Picked as Favorites

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are no more optimistic people in spring than baseball's managers. Every year they prove it just before the season opens.

Here is this year's proof—the pennant predictions and hopes of the 24 major league managers:

American League

Mayo Smith, Detroit Tigers—The Tigers have their work cut out for them but I think they have the stuff to win again. I'd say that Baltimore, Boston and New York are the teams to beat in the East.

This is a young club with fine pitching and great hitting.

Dick Williams, Boston Red Sox-Barring injuries, I believe we have as good a chance as any team to win the American League pennant.

We have youth and talent on the Red Sox and, if we can stay free of serious injuries, we have a shot at the pennant. The return of Tony Conigliaro should help us greatly. Also, having Jim Lonborg available all season will make a great deal of difference.

Injuries

Billy Martin, Minnesota Twins—This has been the type of spring I hope never to see again. Because of brutal weather, injuries to Jim Kaat, Dave Boswell, John Roseboro, Rod Carew and Bob Allison plus late arrivals, we just haven't caught up.

Al Lopez, Chicago White Sox—I feel we have a good chance in our division. Gary Peters, Joe Horlen and Tommy John have rounded into shape well and none shows any trace of injuries, We hope Sammy Ellis can be our fourth starter. Bill Melton is a good third baseman, a new boy who has been hitting around .400 all during spring training.

Joe Gordon, Kansas City Royals—We've looked pretty good. We haven't scored many runs but our pitching has looked real good. Our defense hasn't been too bad. I feel we'll surprise some people.

Bill Rigney, California Angels—Im excited about the potential. It's the first time I've felt that the starters will carry us and not the bullpen. Our fate is in our young arms—Jim McGlothlin, Andy Messersmith, Tommy Murphy and Rudy May.

Good Power

Joe Schultz, Seattle Pilots—We'll have a club with good power and good hitting. Our defense is good and we have fairly good speed. Our pitching is fairly good and we have strong relief pitching. The addition of Gene Brabender from Baltimore will really help.

Earl Weaver, Baltimore Orioles—We'll be close all the way if everybody has just a normal year, not even an outstanding year. I don't see how any American League team can run away with it Our pitching is better We had three starters-last year—Dave McNally, Tom Phoebus and Jim Hardin—who won 55 games. To these we have added two starters in Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer.

Hank Bauer, Oakland A's—We should be a real contender this year for the title in our division along with Minnesota. Our problem will be scoring runs. We also might have problems with our young bullpen and the catching John Odom, Jim Nash, Jim Hunter and Chuck Dobson give us four strong and young starters

Spirits High

Ted Williams, Washington Senators—I can't make any predictions because I haven't seen all the other clubs yet, but we're coming out of spring training with our spirits high and we're in good shape

Alvin Dark, Cleveland Indians—We're definitely a contender in the American League this season. I'm looking for our pitching to be even better and certainly we should score more runs.

Ralph Houk, New York Yankees—I believe this is a better team than we've had recently It is the youngest in Yankee history. It also is the fastest. It can be a good one.

The revelopment of Murcer, Kenney and Burbach makes us stronger

National League

Red Schoendienst, St Louis Cardinals—Our club added a lot when we got Vada Pinson. He can do everything. And Joe Torre gives us protection behind the plate. Dave Giusti should help our pitching. But we could be hurting in relief.

One of our biggest problems is not having a bench man who can motor. I mean a man who can pinch-run well. All in all, I like our pennant chances.

Clyde King, San Francisco Giants—I'm not predicting we will win the pennant but I know we are capable of winning it all. Besides, we've got a winning attitude. This is a happy club.

Walter Alston, Los Angeles Dodgers—Basically, three factors make us strong First, our pitching looks pretty solid. Maybe we could use some relief help. Second, our youngsters—Willie Crawford, Bill Russell, Ted Sizemore and Bill Sdakis—have had good spring training seasons although they haven't actually proven themselves yet. Third. Ron Fairly and Jim Lefebvre have looked the best in years.

Score Runs

Dave Bristol, Cincinnati Reds—This is now my type of team. We can score runs. We've proved that. If our pitchers can stay healthy we should be able to have a good shot at winning the Western Division.

Leo Durocher, Chicago Cubs—I don't believe in pennant predictions. I predicted once. I said my club wasn't an eighth-place club. It wasn't. We finished 10th.

Preston Gomez, San Diego Padres—We went for young kids in the expansion draft because we think that's the only way we can build for the future. Our kids will lose us a lot of ball games this year but they'll be learning.

Larry Shepard, Pittsburgh Pirates—Things are much better than last spring in spite of the late arrivals and the disappointing weather There have been several bright spots and we haven't had the injuries that we had this time last year. Our young players look good.

Luman Harris, Atlanta Braves—I think we can win the pennant. I think we've got as good a chance as anybody. I don't see why we can't get off to a fast start.

Our bench will help us more than it did last year and that's going to be a big factor. For instance, we've got Tito Francona, Tommie Aaron and Bob Aspromonte and all of them can handle first base and the outfield

Harry Walker, Houston Astros—I believe our club is better than any we have brought back previously from training camp. We acquired a fine catcher in John Edwards and a live wire in Curt Blefary at first The trade controversy has put Jesus Alou under a strain but his attitude has been tremendous. Joe Morgan is back and his leg apparently is in good shape.

Gene Mauch, Montreal Expos—I think we can hold our own with any team in our division except maybe the Cardinals and the Cubs. We won't beat ourselves. In fact we are, in my opinion, the strongest expansion club in baseball history.

Bob Skinner, Philadelphia Phillies—The Phillies could be a surprise team this season.

Richie Allen now is our first baseman and with Deron Johnson at third we will have as much power on the corners as any team in the majors

Larry Hisle is the best defensive center fielder the Phillies have had since Richier Ashburn and Don Money is a strong, young shortstop with a fast bat.

Gil Hodges, New York Mets—This is the best Mets team ever. Our pitching should be even stronger than it was last year when two of our youngsters made the All-Star team. Using Cleon Jones at first gives us the chance to put Rod Gaspar in center field. He swings a good bat.

Stan Druckrey of La Crosse State, competing unattached, won the 45-yard high hurdles in a meet-record 5.7 seconds, edging Jerry Fair of Carthage.

The only other new meet record was 54 feet, 4 inches in the shot put by Jerry Westphal of Milwaukee

Government Bond Purchase Eases Estate Tax Burden

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

If there's an elderly individual in the family circle who's worrying over how big a piece of his estate the government may get in taxes some day, you might pass this along:

Investment counselors have been recommending the purchase of government bonds to ease the tax strain. There are 22 issues of these bonds that are selling below par, but can be redeemed at par in paying off federal estate taxes.

Some of these bonds have been priced at less than 73 cents on the dollar — very attractive to buyers who anticipate sizable estate tax payments. Your broker no doubt has a listing, identifying these particular issues.

A bank trust officer points out the advantage of the purchase of bonds from assets in an estate at this time. The question of liquidating investments could be avoided at the time of settlement, if it happened to be an inopportune time to sell. A $250,000 estate, for example, even with marital deductions and half trusteed, would still be required to pay over $10,000 in federal estate tax. Obviously, the bite is less deep when the actual cost is only $7,300 via bonds bought below par but accepted at par value.

Dear Miss Feeley:

If a husband, during a calendar year, makes a cash gift to his wife of $20,000, how much of that amout is exempt from gift tax and how much must be reported as a gift tax to the government? This is assuming that the husband has not previously used any of his lifetime $30,000 exemption.

H.C.H., Fort Madison, Iowa

Dear H.C.H.:

Because of the marital deduction, half of the gift, or $10,000 in this case, is exempt from tax. Since you can deduct the $3,000 allowed the individual in any one year as a tax-free gift, you need report only $7,000, which is applied to the $30,000 lifetime exclusive, leaving $23,000 for future use.

*

Dear Miss Feeley:

In a recent column, you estimated the carrying cost of a $23,000 house with $13,000 mortgage at 6¾ per cent for 25 years at about $165 a month. Since these figures hit close to home, could you tell me the approximate salary such a home owner would be earning?

R F., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Dear R.F.:

A reasonable expectation would be $9,500 to $10,000 gross annual income, with the basic deductions and exemptions for a family of four — putting the take-home pay at approximately $650 a month. The once-honored rule that cost of housing shouldn't exceed one week's net income has been pretty well shot these days.

Imlach Fired 'Two Minutes' After NHL Loss

Axe Falls Swiftly on General Manager, Coach of Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — The axe that hung ever so low over Punch Imlach's head all during the National Hockey League season, fell swiftly on the veteran Toronto genera manager and coach Sunday night after the Leafs absorbed their fourth straight beating from Boston in the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

Stafford Smythe, president of the hockey team, marched into the press room at Maple Leaf Gardens two minutes after the game and said, "he's through altogether."

Smythe, who had called Imlach on the carpet early in the season when the Leafs were in the NHL East Division cellar, said he fired Imlach moments after the game ended.

"I told him two minutes ago," Smythe said. "I said, 'it's the end of the Imlach era.' "

4 Stanley Cups

It was an era that brought four Stanley Cups in 11 seasons and playoff finishes in 10 of those seasons. The Leafs missed the playoffs for the first time under Imlach last year.

There were rumblings that Imlach was in trouble then and they increased when the Leafs started slowly this season. In December, Imlach was called before the hockey committee of Maple Leaf Gardens. He assured Smythe and the committee that the team would make the playoffs and it did.

Still, Smythe was not satisfied. He had often suggested that Imlach drop one of his two jobs but Punch always refused, saving that he would hold both jobs or neither.

Imlach said he knew he was finished before Smythe told him. "But I will have something more to say about that later. I'm going to reserve my judgment until I'm less emotionally upset."

Smythe named John McLellan, coach of the Tulsa Oilers of the Central League as the Leafs' new coach and scout Jim Gregory as the new general manager.

Age No Factor in Playoffs, Declares Celtics' Howell

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — When you get to be 32, 33, 34, 35 years old, playing 82 games in the National Basketball Association, it's a long, long season.

"During the season, age is a problem," said 32-year-old Bailey Howell, "but during the playoffs, age is no factor. You can see the end."

The Celtics, whose first eight men are all more than 28 with five topping 30, certainly are proving it.

Playing like a bunch of youngsters with the experience of age, the Celts ran through their Eastern Division semifinal series against favored Philadelphia in five games and opened the division final Sunday with an impressive 108-100 victory over the young and hopeful New York Knicks.

Player-coach Bill Russell, 35, just shrugs off old age and the idea of Boston's special prowess in the playoffs. "We don't even talk about it," he says.

Appear Revitalized

But it's there. It must be because the Celtics, who finished a dragging fourth during the regular season after winning the NBA title last year, appear revitalized.

They went into Sunday's nationally televised game before 19,500 screaming partisan New York fans with only one victory in seven regular season games against the Knicks, a team coming off a four-game semifinal sweep over first-place Baltimore.

Boston took a 70-55 lead in the third quarter, only to have the Knicks pull within 94-90 and then 98-94 on the shooting of Walt Frazier, who totaled 34 points. But here, when the old Celts should tire, instead Howell, John Havlicek, 29, and former Knick Emmette Bryant, 30, took them out of danger.

"Against a lot of clubs not as great as Boston or with their experience, we would have won," added Willis Reed, who scored 24 points for the Knicks.

Wills Says He's Available For Baseball Manager Post

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Shortstop Maury Wills said Sunday he is still available if anyone wants him as a baseball club manager, but that he is no longer knocking at any doors.

"If they feel they want me," he said, "they know how to get hold of me. It's up to them."

Wills, 36, who stole a record 104 bases in 1962, said he plans to "give it 100 per cent" as a player with the Montreal Expos, but is giving up any attempt to become the first Negro manager of a major league team.

"It took me eight and a half years of struggling, heartbreak and disappointment through the minors to make it up here," the former Los Angeles Dodgers star said. "I'm not going to do the same thing trying to get to manage."

"So I'm going to do the best job I can for the Expos," he said. He was in Milwaukee with the Montreal expansion team for an exhibition game Sunday, which the Expos lost to the Cleveland Indians 8-0.

"Not one of the four expansion clubs approached me" about a managerial assignment, Wills said. "Obviously, not one is interested."

Wills said he is looking forward to national development of a chain of dry cleaning stores and laundromats he has helped start in Los Angeles.

"I'm going to go national with them, and give our franchises mostly in black areas," he said. "They're called the 'Maury Wills Stolen Base Cleaners.' "

Kobayashi of Japan Keeps World Title

TOKYO (AP) — Hiroshi Kobayashi of Japan still was world junior lightweight champion today after he scored a split decision triumph Sunday night over Antonio Amaya of Panama.

There were no knockdowns in the 15-round fight.

Amaya, No. 2 world contender, constantly shot fast lefts at the champion but most of them were blocked. He managed to open a cut next to Kobayashi's left eye in the 10th round, and blood from the cut spattered the trunks of both fighters.

Kobayashi weighed 128¾ and Amaya 127½.

Referee Kotoyama scored the fight 72-71 for Kobayashi, judge Hiroyuki Tazaki 72-69 for the champion, and The Associated Press card had it 73-69 for Kobayashi. However, judge Takeo Ugo scored 74-72 for Amaya.

Denver Downs Oaks, Squares Playoff Series

OAKLAND (AP)—The American Basketball Association's Western Division semifinal playoff series moves to Denver Tuesday night, following the Rockets 122-119 victory over Oakland Sunday to even the best-of-7 set 1-1.

The Oaks, hitting on 50 per cent of their shots from the floor, blitzed the Rockets 129-99 when the series opened her Saturday night.

New Orleans took a 129-196 home decision from Dallas Saturday night and the teams meet tonight in New Orleans in their second game of a best-of-7 Western semifinal series.

Minnesota will be at Miami tonight for the first game of their Eastern Division series. Indiana and Kentucky start their best-of-7 set Tuesday evening.

Failure to Sign Lew Makes It Difficult for ABA, Declares Barry

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Rick Barry, an American Basketball star, says failure of the league to sign Lew Alcindor "has made it difficult for us."

Barry, interviewed by a Denver radio station Sunday night, said the league had relied heavily on Alcindor's signing.

"I'd be kidding myself if I said it didn't make any difference," Barry said. "But we still can make it."

Braves' Carty, Hriniak Lost for At Least 21 Days

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) Outfielder Rico Carty, who missed last season because of tuberculosis, and rookie catcher Walt Hriniak were placed on the disabled list Sunday as the Atlanta Braves trimmed their roster to the 25-man limit prior to opening the regular season.

Carty, suffering from a dislocated shoulder, and Hriniak, who has a cracked thumb, will be out of action for at least 21 days, Manager Luman Harris said.

Schaffer Named Business Manager Of Suffolk Downs

BOSTON (AP)— Rudie Schaffer, a front office executive with major and minor league baseball clubs for 34 years, was named today business manager of Suffolk Downs, rejoining his old sidekick Bill Veeck, the race track's new president.

Schaffer started his baseball careers with the old Brewers in his native Milwaukee in 1934-35 and recently ended 10 years as vice president, treasurer and director of business operations with the Chicago White Sox.

Virginia Kealer Rolls 703 Series In ABC Tourney

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Elmer Breeden of Manassas, Va., took over fourth place in regular singles standings of the annual American Bowling Congress tournament Sunday with a 703 series.

Breeden also had 1,914 to move into a sixth-place tie with Paul Moore, Warren, Mich., in regular all-events.

Lakers Climax Comeback With 118-78 Rout of Warriors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Something [illegible] Chamberlain when it was all over [illegible] going down to dream [illegible] makes [illegible] doing that matter is winning.

The Los Angeles Lakers started doing [illegible] Chamberlain [illegible] they did start [illegible] about 7:30 p.m.

Behind the 58 Lakers to Warriors 118 to Saturday night the Lakers capped a four game sweep that gave them the victory in their National Basketball Association playoff series after losing the first two games.

The Lakers now play the winner of the series between the Atlanta Hawks and the San Diego Rockets for the Western Division crown and the chance to play the Eastern Division winner for the NBA championship.

The Lakers held the Warriors to their second lowest point total in their history as the home team hit on only 27.9 per cent of its shots.

West Hits 29

Los Angeles however [illegible] by Jerry West's 29 points [illegible] trouble putting the ball in the basket. They led 61-38 at halftime and increased the lead from there.

The Lakers should win it all if Wilt plays like he did against me," Warrior center Nate Thurmond said of Chamberlain. "Elgin Baylor will get better and West can't get any better.

Baylor still is having trouble going to the basket, but Bill Hewitt has taken up the scoring slack with some help from Mel Counts and Tom Hawkins.

Laker Coach Bill van Breda Kolff praised his club's defense Saturday night and was hopeful about its chances in the rest of the playoffs.

If we play the way we are capable of playing," he said, "we can beat any team in basketball. If we play poorly, any team in basketball can beat us."

The Warriors had a healthy Jeff Mullins back in the line-up for the first time since he injured his left knee in the third playoff game although Mullins led the club with 21 points, his presence didn't seem otherwise to rescue the club which never was really in the game.

Managers Optimistic

Al Lopez Says Chisox Have Chance; Cards Picked as Favorites

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are no more optimistic people in spring than baseball's managers. Every year they prove it just before the season opens.

Here is this year's proof—the pennant predictions and hopes of the 24 major league managers:

American League

Mayo Smith, Detroit Tigers—The Tigers have their work cut out for them but I think they have the stuff to win again. I'd say that Baltimore, Boston and New York are the teams to beat in the East.

This is a young club with fine pitching and great hitting.

Dick Williams, Boston Red Sox-Barring injuries, I believe we have as good a chance as any team to win the American League pennant.

We have youth and talent on the Red Sox and, if we can stay free of serious injuries, we have a shot at the pennant. The return of Tony Conigliaro should help us greatly. Also, having Jim Lonborg available all season will make a great deal of difference.

Injuries

Billy Martin, Minnesota Twins—This has been the type of spring I hope never to see again. Because of brutal weather, injuries to Jim Kaat, Dave Boswell, John Roseboro, Rod Carew and Bob Allison plus late arrivals, we just haven't caught up.

Al Lopez, Chicago White Sox—I feel we have a good chance in our division. Gary Peters, Joe Horlen and Tommy John have rounded into shape well and none shows any trace of injuries, We hope Sammy Ellis can be our fourth starter. Bill Melton is a good third baseman, a new boy who has been hitting around .400 all during spring training.

Joe Gordon, Kansas City Royals—We've looked pretty good. We haven't scored many runs but our pitching has looked real good. Our defense hasn't been too bad. I feel we'll surprise some people.

Bill Rigney, California Angels—Im excited about the potential. It's the first time I've felt that the starters will carry us and not the bullpen. Our fate is in our young arms—Jim McGlothlin, Andy Messersmith, Tommy Murphy and Rudy May.

Good Power

Joe Schultz, Seattle Pilots—We'll have a club with good power and good hitting. Our defense is good and we have fairly good speed. Our pitching is fairly good and we have strong relief pitching. The addition of Gene Brabender from Baltimore will really help.

Earl Weaver, Baltimore Orioles—We'll be close all the way if everybody has just a normal year, not even an outstanding year. I don't see how any American League team can run away with it. Our pitching is better. We had three starters-last year—Dave McNally, Tom Phoebus and Jim Hardin—who won 55 games. To these we have added two starters in Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer.

Hank Bauer, Oakland A's—We should be a real contender this year for the title in our division along with Minnesota. Our problem will be scoring runs. We also might have problems with our young bullpen and the catching. John Odom, Jim Nash, Jim Hunter and Chuck Dobson give us four strong and young starters.

Spirits High

Ted Williams, Washington Senators—I can't make any predictions because I haven't seen all the other clubs yet, but we're coming out of spring training with our spirits high and we're in good shape.

Alvin Dark, Cleveland Indians—We're definitely a contender in the American League this season. I'm looking for our pitching to be even better and certainly we should score more runs.

Ralph Houk, New York Yankees—I believe this is a better team than we've had recently. It is the youngest in Yankee history. It also is the fastest. It can be a good one.

National League

Red Schoendienst, St. Louis Cardinals—Our club added a lot when we got Vada Pinson. He can do everything. And Joe Torre gives us protection behind the plate. Dave Giusti should help our pitching. But we could be hurting in relief.

One of our biggest problems is not having a bench man who can motor. I mean a man who can pinch-run well. All in all, I like our pennant chances.

Clyde King, San Francisco Giants—I'm not predicting we will win the pennant but I know we are capable of winning it all. Besides, we've got a winning attitude. This is a happy club.

Walter Alston, Los Angeles Dodgers—Basically, three factors make us strong. First, our pitching looks pretty solid. Maybe we could use some relief help. Second, our youngsters—Willie Crawford, Bill Russell, Ted Sizemore and Bill Sdakis—have had good spring training seasons although they haven't actually proven themselves yet. Third, Ron Fairly and Jim Lefebvre have looked the best in years.

Score Runs

Dave Bristol, Cincinnati Reds—This is now my type of team. We can score runs. We've proved that. If our pitchers can stay healthy we should be able to have a good shot at winning the Western Division.

Leo Durocher, Chicago Cubs—I don't believe in pennant predictions. I predicted once. I said my club wasn't an eighth-place club. It wasn't. We finished 10th.

Preston Gomez, San Diego Padres—We went for young kids in the expansion draft because we think that's the only way we can build for the future. Our kids will lose us a lot of ball games this year but they'll be learning.

Larry Shepard, Pittsburgh Pirates—Things are much better than last spring in spite of the late arrivals and the disappointing weather. There have been several bright spots and we haven't had the injuries that we had this time last year. Our young players look good.

Luman Harris, Atlanta Braves—I think we can win the pennant. I think we've got as good a chance as anybody. I don't see why we can't get off to a fast start.

Our bench will help us more than it did last year and that's going to be a big factor. For instance, we've got Tito Francona, Tommie Aaron and Bob Aspromonte and all of them can handle first base and the outfield.

Harry Walker, Houston Astros—I believe our club is better than any we have brought back previously from training camp. We acquired a fine catcher in John Edwards and a live wire in Curt Blefary at first. The trade controversy has put Jesus Alou under a strain but his attitude has been tremendous. Joe Morgan is back and his leg apparently is in good shape.

Gene Mauch, Montreal Expos—I think we can hold our own with any team in our division except maybe the Cardinals and the Cubs. We won't beat ourselves. In fact we are, in my opinion, the strongest expansion club in baseball history.

Bob Skinner, Philadelphia Phillies—The Phillies could be a surprise team this season.

Richie Allen now is our first baseman and with Deron Johnson at third we will have as much power on the corners as any team in the majors.

Larry Hisle is the best defensive center fielder the Phillies have had since Richier Ashburn and Don Money is a strong, young shortstop with a fast bat.

Gil Hodges, New York Mets—This is the best Mets team ever. Our pitching should be even stronger than it was last year when two of our youngsters made the All-Star team. Using Cleon Jones at first gives us the chance to put Rod Gaspar in center field. He swings a good bat.

UW-M Victor In State AAU Indoor Meet

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee won the final event Saturday to capture its seventh consecutive AAU indoor track meet.

The Panthers finished with 30 points. The Milwaukee Track Club had 29, Carthage College 25 and the Fox Valley Track Club 10.

UWM was behind until the last event, a 12-lap relay which the Panthers won by eight-tenths of a second over Carthage.

Stan Druckrey of La Crosse State, competing unattached, won the 45-yard high hurdles in a meet-record 5.7 seconds, edging Jerry Fair of Carthage.

The only other new meet record was 54 feet, 4 inches in the shot put by Jerry Westphal of Milwaukee.

Government Bond Purchase Eases Estate Tax Burden

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

If there's an elderly individual in the family circle who's worrying over how big a piece of his estate the government may get in taxes some day, you might pass this along:

Investment counselors have been recommending the purchase of government bonds to ease the tax strain. There are 22 issues of these bonds that are selling below par, but can be redeemed at par in paying off federal estate taxes.

Some of these bonds have been priced at less than 73 cents on the dollar — very attractive to buyers who anticipate sizable estate tax payments. Your broker no doubt has a listing, identifying these particular issues.

A bank trust officer points out the advantage of the purchase of bonds from assets in an estate at this time. The question of liquidating investments could be avoided at the time of settlement, if it happened to be an inopportune time to sell. A $250,000 estate, for example, even with marital deductions and half trusteed, would still be required to pay over $10,000 in federal estate tax. Obviously, the bite is less deep when the actual cost is only $7,300 via bonds bought below par but accepted at par value.

Dear Miss Feeley:

If a husband, during a calendar year, makes a cash gift to his wife of $20,000, how much of that amount is exempt from gift tax and how much must be reported as a gift tax to the government? This is assuming that the husband has not previously used any of his lifetime $30,000 exemption.

H.C.H., Fort Madison, Iowa

Dear H.C.H.:

Because of the marital deduction, half of the gift, or $10,000 in this case, is exempt from tax. Since you can deduct the $3,000 allowed the individual in any one year as a tax-free gift, you need report only $7,000, which is applied to the $30,000 lifetime exclusive, leaving $23,000 for future use.

*

Dear Miss Feeley:

In a recent column, you estimated the carrying cost of a $23,000 house with $13,000 mortgage at 6¾ per cent for 25 years at about $165 a month. Since these figures hit close to home, could you tell me the approximate salary such a home owner would be earning?

R.F., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Dear R.F.:

A reasonable expectation would be $9,500 to $10,000 gross annual income, with the basic deductions and exemptions for a family of four — putting the take-home pay at approximately $650 a month. The once-honored rule that cost of housing shouldn't exceed one week's net income has been pretty well shot these days.

Chevy, Buick and Cadillac Make Great Used Cars

We know the used car market. Only by leasing cars with a high resale value can we stay in business. Chevrolet, Buick and Cadillac are our favorites. Year after year they trade for higher prices than any other cars in our experience. We'll stick with Chevrolet, Buick and Cadillac. You stick with us. We'll both save money.

ACT NOW—YOUR ENROLLMENT-APPLICATION MUST BE MAILED BY MIDNIGHT SAT., APRIL 26, OR IT CANNOT BE ACCEPTED

ONE out of two families will have someone in the hospital this year! It could be you — or some beloved member of your family tomorrow . . . next week . . . next month. Sad to say, very few families have anywhere near enough coverage to meet today's soaring hospital costs. These costs have doubled in just a few short years. They are expected to double again in the few years ahead.

Stop for a moment. Think how much a long stay in the hospital will cost you or a loved one. How would you ever pay for costly, but necessary, X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? What would you do if your pay check stopped, but living expenses kept going on the same as ever? The same rent, phone, food, all the day-to-day expenses that never stop.

What is the average breadwinner to do? We believe we have the answer in the famous Presidential EXTRA CASH Plan that . . . Pays you $100.00-a-week tax-free cash when you go to the hospital.

What a blessing it is when you know you have an extra $100.00 cash coming in every week—beginning the very first day you enter the hospital.

Now, Presidential's economy plan enables you to enjoy this protection at once. Because it will NOT cost you $20.00. It will NOT cost you $10.00—or even $5.00. Your special low price is just 25¢ for the first month's coverage for your entire family. Then continue at low Presidential rates.

Your cash benefits increase each year — at no extra cost to you!

And what peace of mind not to worry about rising costs. Your protection automatically increases $3.00 a week each year for 10 years. The first year you get $100.00 a week. You get $103.00 a week in the second year. $106.00 a week in the third year. $109.00 a week in the fourth year. By the eleventh year, your policy will be worth a full $130.00 a week in benefit payments . . . at no increase in cost to you! This generous cash reserve protection will belong to you for as long as you keep the policy. You can see that your insurance will be worth much more than the present "face value" of the policy. Certainly, our increased payments to you will help keep pace with rising costs and — best of all . . .

. . . The increasing benefits come to you at no extra cost.

You still pay the regular low Presidential premium!

What other Plan protects you like this today? What other Plan keeps protecting you against rising living costs in the years ahead without increasing your premiums? And that's not all. This special Presidential EXTRA CASH Plan (HP18L-1067)...

. . . Pays you $100.00-a-week CASH for a Registered Nurse at home.

Yes, in addition to the $100.00 weekly checks we send you during your hospital stay, we pay you an extra $100.00 a week if the doctor has you engage a full-time Registered Nurse to take care of you at home.

PAYS up to $10,000.00 CASH for each accident or illness, starting the very first day in the hospital. PAYS up to $7,000.00 CASH at the rate of $70.00 A WEEK if you are 65 or over . . . in addition to Medicare.

PAYS $100.00-A-WEEK CASH — if you need a full-time Registered Nurse when you come home from the hospital — up to 50 weeks.

PAYS $1,000.00 EXTRA CASH for accidental death.

PAYS up to $2,000.00 CASH for accidental loss of limbs or eyesight.

PAYS $100.00-A-WEEK CASH for each pregnancy, when you go to the hospital, assuming both husband and wife have been enrolled in the Family Plan With Maternity.

PAYS up to $5,000.00 at the rate of $50.00 A WEEK when a child goes to the hospital for any accident or illness when you are enrolled in the Family Plan.

PAYS you cash benefits that increase each year . . . to a maximum of $130.00 A WEEK . . . at no extra cost to you.

PAYS you cash benefits for hospitalization for any accident immediately. Any sickness is covered beginning 30 days after Effective Date of policy.

NO age limit — no medical examination required — no salesman will call.

IF YOU ARE 65 OR OVER YOU WILL COLLECT $70.00 A WEEK IN ADDITION TO MEDICARE

Why are smart folks over 65 now hastening to protect themselves with the Presidential EXTRA CASH Plan in addition to what Medicare will do for them?

Even though Medicare is a great boon to folks over 65, it will not, of course, pay all the bills that quickly pile up as a result of illness or accident.

Regardless of your age, you still need additional health protection.

We have designed this plan as the important addition to whatever is paid by Medicare—or any other health insurance you may have. Remember, all checks will be sent directly to you (not to the doctor or hospital), to give you that "extra" help just when you need it most. Use the tax-free cash any way you see fit. And you will be glad to know the checks will be big ones! In addition to what is paid by Medicare, Presidential pays you $70.00 a week . . . EVEN FOR 100 WEEKS if necessary! You can receive as much as $7,000.00 for each illness or injury when hospitalized!

How comforting it is to know that—after your stay in the hospital, if you've been there three days or more, you can return home to recuperate and yet not be a burden to your loved ones. Yes, if your doctor has you engage a registered nurse full time within 5 days after you come home, we'll send you checks for $100.00 a week—for as long as you need the nurse—even up to 50 weeks. It's like having a reserve of $5,000.00 cash to draw on when you need it. These benefits also increase each year by $3.00 a week. Another exceptional feature you have with Presidential . . .

. . . Pays you $100.00 a week cash maternity benefits —up to 100 weeks for each hospital stay!

Ordinary hospital insurance may take care of part of your expenses when you go to the hospital to have a baby. But what policy can you think of that gives you cash to help buy all the things you need for the new baby? Now, if both husband and wife are insured in the wonderful Family Plan With Maternity for the entire period of the pregnancy, you get extra cash to use any way you want. If a pregnancy, childbirth or even miscarriage puts you in the hospital for one day, five days, 10 days —as long as necessary—you get $100.00 a week for every day of your confinement, up to 100 weeks.

All these added cash benefits.

Yes, in addition to $100.00 a week for hospitalization or $100.00 a week maternity benefits and $100.00 a week for a registered nurse at home . . . you get all this:

Added cash benefits: $1,000.00 cash to your family if death occurs within 90 days from any accidental injury. Think of how handy the cash can be in time of loss. It can take care of burial expenses without burdening your loved ones.

Added cash benefits: Up to $2,000.00 cash for accidental loss of limbs or eyesight, when the loss occurs anytime within 90 days of the accident. The loss of a limb or eyesight is a terrible thing. Nothing can replace the loss, but a check for $1,000.00 or $2,000.00 brings peace of mind during the period of adjustment.

Added cash benefits: Choose either Family Plan . . . and your children will be covered too! Presidential pays up to $5,000.00 any time your youngster goes to the hospital . . . for tonsilitis, appendicitis, or any other illness or injury! Yes, you will receive $50.00 cash, week after week—for as many as 100 weeks, if necessary.

As a special consideration to you—if you, your spouse or other adult dependents are hospitalized just 6 weeks or more, all premiums that come due, for the person confined, while still in the hospital after this period will be paid by Presidential. And your protection continues as if you were paying the premiums yourself! Then if you leave the hospital and must return for the same condition before you have resumed full normal activities for 90 days, Presidential will again PAY ANY PREMIUMS WHILE YOU ARE IN THE HOSPITAL — TO A MAXIMUM OF 100 WEEKS per confinement! Your full protection remains in force—you collect up to $10,000.00 for each confinement!

THIS LIMITED ENROLLMENT OFFER ENDS SOON

Only 25¢ for First Month — Money-Back Guarantee.

You can now have your first month's protection for your entire family for only twenty five cents! But you must act immediately. Your request for this wonderful Income Protection Plan must be mailed on the convenient Enrollment-Application NOT LATER THAN MIDNIGHT of the date shown.

Your Presidential policy pays during hospital confinement for every conceivable kind of sickness or accident except conditions caused by war or any act of war; any mental disease or disorder; intoxicants and narcotics; where care is in a U.S. Government hospital; pregnancy except as provided under the maternity benefit provision; and expenses resulting from any sickness or injury you had before the Effective Date of your policy . . . during the first 2 years only.

This last item is a real help if you already have a health problem. If you are sick before you take out this policy, you will even be covered for that condition after the policy has been in effect for only 2 years. Meanwhile every new condition is immediately covered.

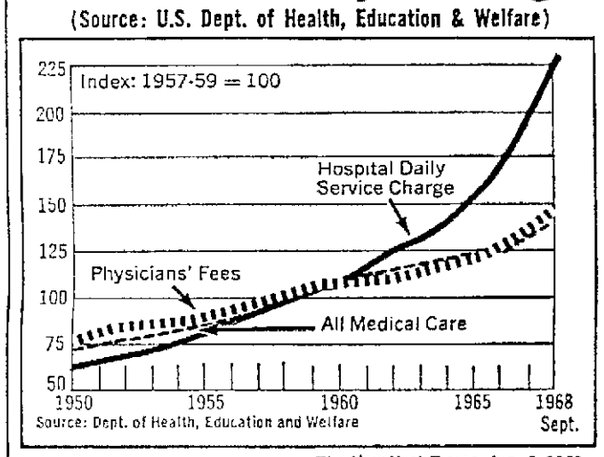
You can buy ordinary insurance at any time and pay the regular rates, if you wish. But Presidential can now provide you and your entire family with tax-free Income Protection for just 25¢ the first month only because we enroll a large number of people at one time — direct by mail! This highly efficient "Mass Enrollment" method cuts costs to the bone — and the savings are passed on to you!

Medical Costs Skyrocketing!

(Source: U.S. Dept. of Health, Education & Welfare)



The New York Times, Jan. 6, 1969

Govt. figures reveal your present health protection ...may no longer protect you against today's rising medical costs! Don't leave your loved ones defenseless! Act at once to add up to $10,000.00 to your health protection for only 25¢ for entire family.

Think how costly a hospital confinement will be. Imagine paying for those indispensable X-rays, doctor bills, medicines and drugs that are not covered by your present insurance.

Would you be able to afford the quiet and privacy of a private room and a private nurse, should you so desire? Or a telephone to keep in touch with loved ones? Or the rental of a TV set to help pass the lonely hours? Who would pay your bills that keep on coming in at home? Many folks have lost their life savings, their cars, even their homes trying to meet such expenses. And no one knows whose turn it will be next.

Why do we give you so little time to apply for your insurance policy—only a few days? Because, as mentioned above, we must receive your Enrollment-Application the same time as all the others in order to pass on to you the savings that come from processing many policies at one time.

We mail you the policy as soon as we receive your Enrollment-Application. When the policy arrives, examine it in the privacy of your own home. Take all the time you need. It's a very short document, and you'll be pleasantly surprised to discover there is NO FINE PRINT. Then — show it, if you wish, to someone you trust. Perhaps your lawyer, accountant, or banker. Better still—show it to your own insurance man . . . even though he may very well be working for another company! If he is a personal friend, he has your best interests in mind. So you can believe him when he tells you there is no better bargain available anywhere—at any price!

Even after you mail your Enrollment-Application below . . . even after you examine the policy in your own home and talk it over with anyone you wish . . . even after all this you are still free to return the policy within 15 days after you receive it, and your quarter will be refunded at once. There will be no obligation whatever.

Meanwhile, all during the 15 days you are making up your mind — you'll be protected by $100.00-A-WEEK extra cash benefits just as if you had already said "yes." That's right, you will be fully covered all this time for any accident which puts you in the hospital, even if you finally decide to return the policy.

However, after you've seen the policy for yourself, you will surely agree that this is a tremendous value and you'll want to continue this $100.00-A-WEEK extra cash protection under the Plan that's best for you.

Plan I — INDIVIDUAL(S) ONLY PLAN:

If you want to cover yourself — or yourself and one or more adult dependents (including your spouse) — then this is the Plan for you. Each person must be 18 or over, and shall pay (per person) the rate applicable to his or her age.

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium
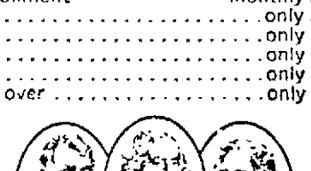
40-49	only $4.95
50-59	only $5.95
60-74	only $6.95
75 and over	only $8.95



THESE 23 QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tell you how Presidential's COST OF LIVING INCOME REPLACEMENT HEALTH AND ACCIDENT PLAN gives you the protection you need — at amazingly low cost!

1. How much will my policy pay me when I go to the hospital?
   You are paid $100.00-A-WEEK cash every single week. And it starts the very first day you are in the hospital. If you are over 65, you are paid $70.00 a week, in addition to any Medicare benefits you receive. You are paid $50.00 a week up to 100 weeks every time your children go to the hospital when you are enrolled in the Family Plan.
2. Will I be paid if I am hospitalized for less than a full week?
   You certainly will . . . regardless of whether you are in the hospital for as short a time as one day . . . or as long a time as a week, month, year or more.
3. Does the Plan pay you from the first day of hospitalization?
   Yes! You receive full cash benefits of $100.00 a week starting the very first day you enter the hospital. The coverage begins when we accept your completed form and 25¢—that is the day you and your loved ones are covered for any accidents. Sickness coverage begins 30 days after the Effective Date of the Policy.
4. How much do I receive for a Registered Nurse at Home?
   $100.00 A WEEK for up to $5,000.00 after you have been hospitalized for 3 days or more, and your doctor has you employ a full-time Registered Nurse within 5 days after you leave the hospital. Ten years from now it will have increased to $130.00 a week in benefits . . . at no extra cost to you!
5. Are there any accidental death benefits?
   Yes. $1,000.00 cash is paid to your estate when death occurs any time within 90 days of an accident.
6. Will I be paid extra if I lose a limb or eyesight?
   Yes. Presidential pays $1,000.00 for complete accidental loss of one hand or one foot or sight of one eye; $2,000.00 for loss of both hands or both feet or sight of both eyes . . . when dismemberment occurs anytime within 90 days of the accident.
7. How much do we receive for pregnancies?
   If you have the Family Plan With Maternity, you receive $100.00 A WEEK for as long as 100 weeks for each pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage that results in hospital confinement when both husband and wife are enrolled under this plan for the entire period of pregnancy.
8. Suppose I am paid benefits for any sickness or accident. What happens if I am again hospitalized for the same condition?
   Don't worry. You still collect $100.00 A WEEK for a total of 100 weeks. And if you have already resumed normal activities for just 90 days, it's considered a new confinement, and you can collect for an additional 100 weeks. Of course, any new condition is covered immediately for a full 100 weeks.
9. How may I use these benefit payments?
   You may use them in any way you wish—for hospital and doctor bills, rent, food, household expenses, or anything else. This is entirely up to you.
10. May I apply if I am over 65?
    Yes, you may. Folks any age are welcome to apply—there is no age limit! Members 65 or over are paid $70.00 a week, plus all Medicare benefits.
11. Can I collect from Presidential even if I carry other insurance?
    Of course. This plan will pay you in addition to whatever you may receive from policies with any other companies, including Medicare for folks over 65.
12. Why do I need this Presidential Plan in addition to my other hospital and health insurance?
    While hospital costs have doubled in recent years, very few people have doubled their insurance. The chances are one in seven that you will need money to take care of all your other expenses, as well as your hospital bills. Your Presidential checks are rushed to you by air mail to use as you see fit.
13. What benefits do my eligible, dependent children get?
    If you choose a Family Type Plan, your dependent eligible children, ages 3 months to 19 years, would receive 50% of all the cash benefits of the basic Plan and 100% of all its other benefits and features (other than Waiver of Premium).
14. May I add future dependent children to my policy after it is in force?
    Yes, indeed, if you have the FAMILY PLAN WITH MATERNITY. Just notify us when they are 3 months old and they will be covered without evidence of insurability and any additional charge.
15. Will my protection be cancelled because I have too many claims?
    Presidential guarantees never to cancel your protection because you have too many claims or because of advanced age. We also guarantee never to refuse to renew your policy unless the premium is not paid before the end of the grace period or unless renewal is declined on all policies of this type in your entire state.
16. Will my rates be raised as I grow older or if I have too many claims?

Enforcing Our Anti-Litter Laws

We may doubt that the bill of Assemblyman Norman Anderson of Madison, proposing to require by law the redemption of non-returnable beer cans and bottles at the rate of one cent each by retailers, wholesalers and brewing companies, has a serious chance of passage

As the spokesmen for the beer trades hastened to point out to a hearing committee the other day, there are obvious and perhaps irreconcilable administrative difficulties inherent in such a plan. Mr. Anderson believes that youth groups would be encouraged to engage in organized scavenger hunts along roadsides, in parks and other public places, with such an incentive. But such youths would not be able to enter a tavern or a liquor store to claim their bounty, under the age laws governing. They would not be likely to travel many miles to the brewery of origin. They would tend to deliver their collections to the local grocer, where grocery sales of beer are permitted, and it would be patently unfair to require him to pay for the return of cans and bottles of no salvage value that he did not sell in the first instance

Forcing him to return a cent per can or bottle, and to finance the costs of storage and ultimate disposition, would put him at a competitive disadvantage with other retailers. Nor would Mr. Anderson's bill affect such cans and bottles that may be brought into places of tourist concentration from distant points, an important consideration in a state which entertains millions of vacationers from Chicago, for example, each year.

Yet the thoughtful citizen of Wisconsin, observing the reckless littering of our landscape, including lakes and streams, will give Mr. Anderson a grateful nod for being concerned about the problem, pondering it and offering his ideas for solution, even if they are not letter perfect. There is no more discouraging aspect of contemporary society in America than the thoughtlessness, amounting almost to contempt, of so many of our neighbors for the quality of our landscape as they dump hundreds of tons of rubbish on public roads and elsewhere that require hundreds of thousands of dollars in trash collection budgets to pick up and carry away.

We would suggest to Mr. Anderson that the hearing his bill brought about may have offered another clue to a solution.

Wisconsin has anti-litter laws. They are severe. The penalties ought to be sufficient to deter the most slovenly ignoramus. But witnesses tended to speculate that enforcement is casual and ineffectual. The vigilance of the highway patrol, on the one hand, and the local water patrols and conservation wardens, on the other, appears to be concentrated on other violations. Any well travelled strip of main highway in Wisconsin will produce numerous arrests for violation of the driving laws each year, and it will also show a shameful volume of degrading roadside litter. A stout fine is what the legislature intended when it wrote the anti-litter statutes. Perhaps it is time for the law-makers to remind our state and local patrols that they meant what they said when they wrote those laws.

Constitutionality of the Draft

The decision by a federal judge that part of the Selective Service Act is unconstitutional certainly will mean further consideration by the United States Supreme Court.

The case involved John Sisson who was convicted by a federal jury of violating the draft law by refusing induction because he regarded the Vietnam war as "illegal and immoral." But when Sisson appeared for sentencing before United States District Judge Charles Wyzanki Jr., the judge stayed sentence because he believed the Act violated the First Amendment which states that "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishing of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." The Selective Service Act provides for exemption from military service of conscientious objectors who oppose all war for religious reasons. "It is difficult to imagine any grounds for this statutory discrimination except religious discrimination," Judge Wyzanski said. "When the state through its laws seeks to override reasonable moral committments, it makes a dangerously uncharacteristic choice. When the law treats a reasonable, conscientious act as a crime, it subverts its own power. It invited disobedience. It impairs the very habits which nourish and preserve the law."

Since the Supreme Court in 1966 said that the draft law on conscientious objectors should be interpreted broadly and not necessarily confined to those with orthodox religious beliefs, it is quite possible that the Court may uphold Judge Wyzanski's opinion. This could have far reaching effects.

Many of the demonstrators against the war have not opposed war as such or in all cases but only the current one in Vietnam and our role in it. The same is true of probably the majority of young Americans who have left the country to evade induction. Recognizing the right of Americans to oppose one war but not war in general in effect gives them the right to choose which war they wish to fight and makes national defense and foreign policy a far more individual matter than it is now considered.

But the decision is certainly in keeping with policies of our early years as a nation. A great many of the immigrants of the 19th Century in particular came to the United States to escape military service in their less democratic homelands. This is a different era and our world responsibilities are much greater. But such a court decision might also serve to encourage restraint among our leaders if we are ever again on the edge of involvement in another Vietnam.

The Tradition of Graft in Asia

A major criticism of the regime in Saigon — and all its predecessors — is that corruption abounds and there are under the table payments from top echelons of authority all the way down the line. A considerable amount of American money is alleged to have gone into private pockets instead of helping feed and arm the Vietnamese people

But this is not unique in Vietnam. It has been a way of life in much of Asia and for what can even be said to be a reasonable cause.

An anonymous columnist who writes for a Bangkok newspaper says that at least one third of Thailand's gross national product is spent on such under the table payments to government officials But this is not true bribery, the writer contends, because the officials are not being paid to do something illegal. Instead the quiet deals amount to padding their extremely low regular paychecks and the result is that they carry out the duties they are hired to do The remedy, he suggests, is to raise salaries so the shady payments are not necessary

This may seem like a strange argument to Americans, used to fringe benefits as well as generally adequate take home pay But the low salary scales over almost all of Asia have existed for generations because of the large number of unskilled labor available. This in turn has meant often extremely low standards of living which has made it usually impossible for children of poor families to learn skills that could improve their situations. Only in Japan, where there is an increasing shortage of both skilled and unskilled labor, has there been much of a change since the end of World War II Under the circumstances of subsistence income and tradition, it is no wonder that there are under the table payments, whether they amount to true bribery or not.

American taxpayers can be expected to resent the expenditure of their funds in this manner A much closer watch on where the money goes should be kept than has been in the past. Making rich Asians richer is not the aim of our foreign aid

But neither can we expect to change their customs in even a generation The tradition of government officials responsible to the people, even though it is sometimes abused in this country, comes with democratic processes and much of Asia is a long way from democracy

Report on Lake, River Work

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 3, 1869.

The Lake & River Transportation Company held their (sic) annual election in this city the present week

We observed that B J Stevens, of Madison, and D M Kelly, of Green Bay, in attendance E. J Shaylor, of this Company, one of the excellent and worthy ones of Appleton, has commenced building a house and will take up his residence in Green Bay

It is impossible to tell just when the canals and locks on the Lower Fox will be opened this season, probably not for another three weeks since winter is still holding its frosty grip upon Lake Winebago.

During the winter, a large amount of work has been done upon the locks and dams of the Lower Fox, and a large force is still employed. It is believed that by June the entire works on the Lower Fox will be in better condition than any season since they were first built

It is understood that a steamer or two will run between New London and Winneconne, connecting closely with trains on the Milwaukie & St. Paul Railway This will be a great advantage to the traveling public

The steam lines between Buffalo and Green Bay and to Chicago will be under efficient management, and there is a strong probability that a large foreign emigration will be diverted to the Green Bay route this season

Gov (Lucius) Fairchild is in Washington now laboring earnestly to secure an appropriation for the improvement of the Wisconsin river Our advices are to the effect that no action will be had at this session of Congress, but that there is a kind of a prospect for carrying it next winter.

Despite Our Bombs, N. Vietnam Has Built Railroad Through Laos

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's analysts privately summarize the Vietnam military impasse in terms that tend to unlock the mystery that agonizes our millions.

Instead of blocking the famous Ho Chi Minh Trail through "neutral" Laos, against which we did such immense bombing and lost so many airmen's lives and aircraft, the enemy has actually succeeded in building a railroad through Laos to the front.

This unrevealed fact reveals the full ineffectiveness of our blocking But, along with it, comes a revelation regarding how long the blocking has been ineffective.

As long ago as 1962 Central Intelligence Agency operatives saw the Red Chinese deliver 5,000 transport loads of war materials to Tchepone, 100 miles east of Savanaket. The Ho Chi Minh Trail from there has been reported blocked nearly a hundred times.

RECORD FIRE POWER

Our firepower assembled is greater than at any time or place in World War II. But the North Vietnamese rely on underground cover, concealment and dispersal against our built-up air and ground firepower They try not to offer objectives to the Western guns, but lack the relative counter weapons necessary to remove most of our guns. We have the guns and few targets. They have the targets and relatively few guns. This is the rub.

Taylor

An American weapon fired without dividends in terms of the enemy's destruction is a weapoon lost from the limited Saigon stockpile transported 9,000 miles from the United States

More than half our casualties are from mines, booby-traps and ambushes. The Reds are using not only the same types of ambushes but many of them in the same places that they have succeeded in destroying military convoys throughout more than 20 years. In this, behind the scenes, there is identical repetition, repetition, repetition.

The basic North Vietnam tactic, of course, is to break contact whenever superior U S. forces are committed, and go away. If our enemy does not want to be found you do not find him If he wants to be found he attacks fast and hard and then disappears. Every man knows exactly where to go after he has fired his ammunition, killed the dead and is through.

Although there is an increase in the proportion of engagements with battle-organized, artillery-equipped enemy troops, the war still is fought in a guerrilla environment. The dominant military characteristic is the intelligence contrast. The guerrillas know all that is happening while our counterforces move in nearly a perpetual fog. This fog is hard to lift, for it begins in the fears of the people. But it gives the enemy his greatest tactical asset.

TAKEN BY SURPRISE

For example, in the recent Tet, or lunar New Year, offensive, from which we still have not fully recovered, the enemy achieved another big tactical surprise. In Saigon, contrary statements notwithstanding, no one knew the attack was coming. We first thought 15,000 would attack. As the hoard grew, this was recalculated to 36,000. Actually, 60,000 attacked.

The first rule of strategy is not to meet the enemy on ground of the enemy's choice and at the times determined by the enemy. But, by the intelligence fog and other means, the enemy holds (and always has held) the initiative in Vietnam. We must dance to his tune. For the most part we fight when, how and where the enemy chooses.

This leaves us moving masses from one place to another without destroying the enemy in being. At enormous logistic expense our forces are summoned like a fire engine or dispatched like a lifeboat to hard and disadvantageous engagement points. It is thus a round-trip effort that so often leaves us back where we started.

The vital and decisive fact is that in this fire engine-lifeboat process we have to this day not succeeded in building an effective front or in being secure on our flanks or in the rear.

The fundamental weakness in our Paris-talks position is that we cannot outlast the enemy in Vietnam and nevertheless are loath to allow our forces to outfight him — all of which Ho Chi Minh well knows. Meanwhile, the enemy buildup has grown so great that he cannot be driven out by our present forces Yet, that is the basis from which the United States team is negotiating in Paris

Vote on Referenda Should Make State Proud of Its Voters

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The essence of the democratic idea is that average men and women will make the right decisions if they are sufficiently informed of the facts and the merits of the issues they are called upon to resolve.

That conviction of the founding fathers was brilliantly vindicated again in the ratification in popular voting of two major amendments to the state constitution, and three advisory referenda of such importance that the voting decisions must be construed by legislators as binding mandates upon them.

The issue of the county executive, the whole complex question of the method of contracting state debt, the questions of bonding for recreational facilities and surface water protection, as well as the question of state vs. local control and financing of the fast growing vocational and technical school program were major questions, requiring reflection and study and genuine interest on the part of the voters.

IS PROUD PERFORMANCE

The voters are not sophisticated about these matters. But they made precisely the decisions that a majority of the genuinely informed students of public affairs had hoped they would make, and in fact urged them to make. Taken together with the record of perceptive and judicious voting on a dozen other referendum questions during the last couple of years, it is a proud performance for the people of Wisconsin, indeed.

Tastes will differ, but a case can be made for the argument that the most important of these decisions is the amendment to the constitution that will at long last get rid of the faintly dishonest "dummy" borrowing corporations, as statehouse reporters long ago aptly named them, and to put state bond issues under defined limitations and democratic controls in the future.

It was a long fight. In 1958 former Gov. Gaylord Nelson launched his first campaign for the executive office with a studied attack on the building corporation method of putting the state into debt. Now, 11 years later, the abolition of these evasive contrivances is about to be achieved.

* * *

VOTE WAS REMARKABLE

The popular vote was the more remarkable because there was no overt campaigning done on behalf of an affirmative vote, in contrast, for example, to the powerful publicity campaign organized for the ORAP-200 advisory referendum. Indeed, as noted here before, there was reason to believe that some of the major state institutions were indifferent to the reform of borrowing procedure, having prospered quite satisfactorily under the dummy corporation gimmick.

It may be, in fact, that the extent and the purposes of state borrowing in the future will be audited somewhat more carefully under the reform amendment. Surely one of the results will be an assurance to taxpayers and their posterity that there will be a limit to the extent of borrowing, even as cities and counties and other governments are limited. There was no such assurance under the existing system.

The State Assembly guessed shrewdly the popular attitude on water pollution and recreation in the ORAP-200 program, so-called, when it divided the advisory referendum.

* * *

SHOWED CORRECT HUNCH

By asking for separate voter responses on bonding to control water pollution and bonding for recreational land acquisition, these men proved their hunch that the former has more popular support.

The difference in the vote was so pronounced that it may well have some effect in the ultimate decisions on priorities and amounts of borrowing for both purposes.

The reason for the divided view of the electorate on the question is not difficult to discern. Nobody favors dirty water, as one of the legislature's leaders observed early in the deliberations on the issue. But there is considerable doubt in some quarters, and especially in rural Wisconsin, about the vast expanse of public recreational lands envisioned by the planners.

* * *

DOUBT BASED ON FEARS

The doubt is based on fear of the state's condemnation powers, the erosion of the local tax base, and the failure to date to set a definite goal, in numbers of projects and total acreage, for the land acquisition effort.

As the typical legislator will see it, he has a positive and indisputable mandate to support the funding of water protection works. The mandate is considerably less clear on the question of providing more parks, fishing and hunting preserves, and the rest.

Exponential Rate of Change Is Explained

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A high school student in Georgia writes to ask what I mean by referring to the "exponential" rate of change in modern society. And not only what do I mean, but why is it important?

What I mean is that the rate of change has increased in the way you keep squaring a number, whereas in the past change took place in the way you merely add numbers. This implies that change has entered a whole new dimension of speed.

Information systems — represented mostly by the computer — are now one of the leading businesses in the world, and are growing at an astounding rate Yet it was only 14 years ago that the first business computer in the world was installed

Nuclear power plants are another of the tremendous growth industries of our time, yet it was only eight years ago that the first large-scale privately financed nuclear power plant went into operation. And commercial jet engines are the third booming innovation of this period — but the first scheduled commercial jet airliners were put in service less than 11 years ago

These industries alone have accounted for several million new jobs, calling for new skills, new learning, new approaches at every level, from the technical to the administrative

The time elapsing between the development of a new product or process and its introduction to the market has shrunk to a fraction of the time it used to take. Our educational, economic and social systems have scarcely had the breathing-space to adjust to these swift transitions.

As an amusing and instructive example of the recent past, not many people know that the slide fastener (or "zipper") was introduced by its inventor at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893

Harris

Yet it was not until nearly 40 years later, in the early 1930's, that even so simple and practical a device was put into mass production in a Pennsylvania town that was the only one to survive the Depression because of its technological innovation in the slide fastener field.

Whereas in our grandfather's time it took 40 years to get a new product going, the average time-span has gone down to less than three years But it still takes as long as it did in 1893 to educate people, to build homes for them, to transport them locally from one place to another (a horse could cross Manhattan faster than a taxi in traffic), or to retrain them for new jobs in new fields

This is what an "exponential" rate of change means — and why it has made us the most prosperous society in the world, but also the most confused, the most frantic, the most frustrated, and the most anxious

All Men Should Serve, Including Cassius Clay

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

What makes a person so special in the eyes of our government if he has money? It seems even our Democratic government can be bought; Cassius Clay or Muhammad Ali, or whatever he may want to call himself, in the eyes and minds of the American public, still a draft dodger. He refused to fight for his country and every loyal, law abiding citizen of the United States knows this. Yet, the U. S. Supreme Court says his case may be reversed because of wiretapping. That is the most ridiculous thing I have ever heard. If the government or F.B.I. did listen to his conversations, that's the breaks. He still refused to serve his country and it's common knowledge. The country populace heard him say he wouldn't go into service on nation wide television and radio. Are we all guilty of eavesdropping? What will happen to our draft system if they allow this man to go free??

An Army deserter just returned from Sweden and was sentenced to five years at hard labor. He was man enough to go into service. He was also man enough to face his penalty for deserting. Not by any means do I condone deserting or refusing to do as ordered. It's just that this man had face enough to do what he felt was his responsibility at first. He'd probably be a free man now if he had the money Clay has wasted on Cadillacs alone. No, Cassius Clay must be punished for his refusal or our draft system is going to have more trouble than it can possibly imagine. No young man wants to go to Vietnam. No parent wants to see her or his son sent on to Vietnam. If Mr. Clay gets away with it then every young man should be able to. But then Mr. Clay has money.

Mr. Clay says he is about $300,000 in debt in legal fees, but in the next paragraph says, and I quote, "I'm waiting on my '69 model now." He's referring to his Cadillac with stereo tape and television. Every young man his age should be $300,000 in debt and still be able to purchase a new Cadillac.

President Nixon is talking about a volunteer army. That's also way out in left field. During peacetime we'd have a big beautiful army. War breaks out and the whole army would resign and you'd have no volunteers. They may even become unionized and go on strike just when a big war breaks out. This sounds crazy, but just who is to say it couldn't happen. In this day and age nothing is impossible.

I firmly believe that the solution to this is very simple. Every young man at the age of eighteen should have to serve his country for a period of two years. No one excluded, as long as he is healthy and of at least average intelligence. Every man, regardless of race, color, creed or wealth, regardless of war or peace. I know and see a lot of young men going into service today as smart alec kids and coming out in two years as mature grown men. I feel the service can make a man out of a boy.

If all young men had to serve their country, we could eliminate some of the world's problems. After two years of active duty they would realize and understand more of the problems of today's complex world. They may be able to help solve some of the problems instead of raising cane in our colleges and streets of today.

If a young man realizes he will have to serve his country for two years as an active service man after he reaches the age of eighteen, he will look forward to it, instead of dreading the day he receives his draft notice.

Our country needs more mature young men. After serving Uncle Sam for two years, I'm sure we would have just that. Why build up the hopes of a young man when we of the more mature world realize it's all a dream, usually used as a method of getting more votes by a politician.

Money Not Main Incentive For Town Police, Firemen

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Referring to your editorial of Friday, March 14. Kudos for Grand Chute Police; it was good to see an organization of the Town of Grand Chute get a pat on the back from the local editor.

I'd like to comment on the reimbursement the police get for their services — for the benefit of the uninformed. I don't believe these men are out risking their lives for the monetary reimbursement. They, like our volunteer firemen, are performing a needed service to the community for reimbursement which does little more than meet the expenses connected with their respective part-time jobs.

I've been a member of the Grand Chute Fire Department for twenty years and I'm one member of the committee which interviews applicants for membership, and I find that when asked their reasons for wanting to become a member of our fire department, the majority reply that they want to be part of an organization that provides the extra services that a growing community needs, without asking "how much do we get per hour." They feel that it's a privilege and a duty to be an active member of our department.

We get reimbursed for the time we put in at fires but certainly not enough to compensate for the risks and hazards involved and certainly not enough to make it an incentive to become a member.

I can't believe the $2 or $3 an hour that our police and our firemen get for their services is the factor that urges them to get out in any kind of weather, day or night, be criticized and perhaps abused for the job they are doing and many times their efforts go unappreciated.

No, it's not the $2 or $3 or even $5 an hour that brings out the policeman or the fireman to do his job, whether he is part-time, or full-time; member of a volunteer or a paid department. I believe it's the satisfaction one gets from performing a much - needed service for his fellowman.

Brain Damaged Child Really Can be Helped

Editor, The Post-Crescent

I read with interest the AP article in Sunday's (March 30) paper on neurological underdevelopment and how it affects many children.

The editor's note by Alice Huck tells of a local child and how he was helped by the Doman-Delacatte Institute for Achievement of Human Potential in Philadelphia. They use the crawl, creep and cross-pattern walking as part of their attempt to develop a dominant (right or left) side of the brain.

The child mentioned seems at least in part to be afflicted with an old ailment that has just begun to receive public attention. It is commonly called dyslexia and is believed to be caused by brain damage or some inherited trait. There are many degrees of severity.

Our 10-year-old daughter was diagnosed four years ago as having developmental dyslexia. The only recommended treatment was to allow time for her to outgrow it. Her intelligence level was found to be average to above average except in the "mechanics."

Like most other children with this problem she was little more than awkward until placed in school where manual dexterity and reading are required. Since then she has had few successes. Time unfortunately has not been the answer with our present day methods of education.

The Doman-Delacatte theory is not generally considered valid by other doctors on the grounds that it is entirely unproven. It was said that any child would improve in intelligence with 8 to 12 hours of attention showered on him.

However, the proof seems increasingly evident. There are new methods of teaching dyslectic children until they are able to cope with a regular classroom situation. Unfortulately these methods are unheard of in this area. Indeed most teachers have never heard of dyslexia and often treat the child as a slow learner or retarded.

We know from talking with professionals that the problem is widespread but it may take years to convince people of the need for special teaching methods just as it took years of intensive education to convince the public that cerebral palsied children were not necessarily mentally retarded.

I hops there will be more articles and discussion, pro and con, on all types of brain damage and treatment. It is a waste to leave bright young minds trapped when there is a way to help.

1040 U.S. ... Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I'm a farmer and I would rather file early than pay the estimated tax. When do I have to send in my 1968 tax return?

A — The filing deadline for farmers who have not made an estimated tax declaration return is February 17. Be sure to attach a schedule F to your form 1040 and pay in full any tax that is due.

Q — I have a stock sale to report. What form do I use and where can I get a copy?

A — Stock sales and other sales or exchanges of property should be reported on Schedule D. The net profit or loss from these sales should be entered on line 5, Part II of your form 1040.

Copies of Schedule D are available at local IRS offices as well as many banks and post offices.

Q — My refund was held up last year. What can I do to avoid the same thing happening this year?

A — File a complete, accurate return and send it in early. Refund claims filed now can be processed and the refund issued in five to six weeks.

A major reason for refund delays last year was incomplete returns. Over one and one-half million returns were received with a missing or an incorrect social security number. Other common errors were failure to sign the return and failure to include W-2 statements.

Missing supplementary forms, such as those to claim the sick pay exclusion or a moving expense deduction, also delayed some refunds.

Q — My paycheck has been smaller the last few weeks. Have taxes gone up?

A — The Social Security tax rate for individuals increased from 4.4 per cent to 4.8 per cent in January. This may account for the increased withholding from your paycheck.

Q — A W-2 form came last week for my son who is now in the Navy. Does he have to file a tax return?

A — Yes, he does if his income was $600 or more last year. A return would also have to be filed to obtain a refund of tax withheld even if income was less than $600. However, if he is stationed overseas he has additional time to file his return.

Taxpayers out of the country have an automatic extension from April 15 to June 16 to file 1968 returns. If your son is in Vietnam, his return isn't due until 180 days after he leaves that area.

Q — I am a widower. Does the fact that my nephew now makes his home with me allow me to file as head of household?

A — If your nephew also qualifies as your dependent then you may be able to file as a head of household. Check your 1040 instructions for details.

Q — Social Security tax was taken out of my pay on both jobs I had last year. Is there any way I can get part of this back?

A — If more than $343.20 was withheld from your wages last year for Social Security taxes, then the excess can be claimed as a credit on your income tax return. The amount of the credit should be entered on line 18, page 1 of the form 1040.

Aspirations Of Consumers Seem Limitless

Middle Income People Often Live Beyond Their Means

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For most American families there never will be an adequate answer to the mystery of where the money goes. If salaries are rising, they ask, why is so little money left from each paycheck?

One attempt at an answer: Inflation and aspirations.

The problem is faced more and more these days as thousands of families squeeze into the middle-income areas, that "average" group that makes Uncle Sam's midriff look fat and prosperous.

This is the group of rising aspirations. Whereas those in poverty hardly dare to wish, and those in the upper classes don't wish but do, the middle income people often strive for what they can't afford.

Two New Cars

When they finally come within reach of that for which they strive, they find that not only has it risen in price but that their aspirations have risen also. One new car, for example, might awaken the desire for a second car.

After studying this phenomenon for years, George Katona, a pioneer in consumer studies, concluded that there is no limit to consumer desire; there is little likelihood, in other words, that this appetite will become sated.

Aspirations cost money. And while the paycheck grows, so also does the food bill and the monthly installment payments and the college tuitions. The family arguments grow hotter, and sometimes even lead to divorce.

Distant View

Inflation and aspirations—that's one explanation of where the money goes. Both are insidious, one slowly raising prices and the other converting distant hopes into immediate needs. It takes a distant view to observe the process, but then it is quite obvious.

The National Industrial Conference Board, a private research group, recently observed that the median income of American families in 1967 was 50 per cent larger than in 1960 and 2½ times that of the 1950 level.

But then it noted: "About one-third of these money gains were offset by rising prices."

The manner in which wages are paid also is changing. In 1950, for example, employer payments for employe security, such as insurance and pensions, was 5 per cent of total compensation. Now it's about 10.

Social Security

Since 1960, employer contributions to Social Security have risen 150 per cent, and contributions to private pension and welfare systems have jumped 125 per cent. Employers now are paying about $1.5 billion a year for medicare.

In other words, some of the increased standard of living is not immediately obvious. Americans are more financially secure than a few years ago, but this doesn't show up when the checking account is being balanced.

There are some indications also that this better life is not coming easily to many Americans.

The 40-hour week, sought after so long, has frequently been found unworkable, and second jobs often occupy the time that had been planned for leisure.

Working Wives

In many households the good life can be afforded only because wives, too, are working. In 1952, the conference board study shows, less than 25 per cent of families had working wives. That percentage is now more than 35.

A study by the Brookings Institution, published about two years ago as "Economic Behavior of the Affluent," showed that of 957 wage earners in the $10,000 and up category, one in four worked 60 hours or more.

Many held two jobs, the study showed, and in 40 per cent of the families with incomes between $10,000 and $30,000, wives as well as husband worked.

And in these times of relatively plentiful jobs, don't forget the contributions made by working children. The highest family incomes generally are in the 45 to 54 age category, with the median well over $9,000. But, as the children leave home this figure drops sharply.

Perhaps the biggest frustration of the middle-income family is that it really can't sit back and enjoy the results of its leisure. To slow down is to slip behind. Aspirations might become dulled, but the sharp edge of inflation may not.

U. S. Squabble With Peru

Oil, Ocean Currents Blamed for Dispute

By AP Newsfeatures

An ocean current and an old tar pit are factors in the burgeoning dispute between the United States and Peru.

The current is the Humboldt that sweeps north along the west coast of South America, carrying with it rich nutriment on which minute sea life flourishes. This in turn spawns tremendous schools of fish which have given Peru the opportunity to become the world's leading fishing nation—far ahead of Japan and Russia. To monopolize the fishing in these seas, the Peruvians have laid claim to waters 200 miles off shore instead of the usual 12. Entering that area recently, several U.S. fishing craft from California have been seized and fined as much as $25,000. That accounts for one crisis in U.S.-Peruvian relationships.

The other can be traced to an old tar pit for which title was granted more than a century ago when nobody realized its seepage was the future black gold of commerce—crude oil. Rights to this area were acquired eventually by a Standard Oil of New Jersey subsidiary. When a revolutionary junta took over the government last fall, it not only confiscated the company's property, but billed it for $690 million for oil extracted "illegally."

May Cut Off Aid

The United States doesn't contest Peru's right to confiscate the property but if it doesn't make a satisfactory settlement with the company by April 9, about $80 million annual aid and sugar purchases may be cut off. A special presidential envoy is down there now negotiating the matter. Meantime anti-American sentiment rises and "Yankee Go Home" signs appear.

Peru, where the Incas once held sway, is bigger than Alaska, has almost as many people as Canada. Its arid coastal plain now produces bumper crops under irrigation; its mountains streaked with copper ore reach upward nearly four miles. The guano deposited by fish-eating birds on the sun-drenched islands off its coast now is used locally for fertilizer instead of being transported in square riggars halfway around the world, but Peru is still a tremendous exporter of natural resource products.

Exotic Menu Starts Furor In W. Germany

Restaurant Owner Makes Delicacies Of Puma, Jaguar

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A West German can't enjoy his roast puma or savor a jaguar ragout these days without an animal lover calling him a barbarian.

"Degenerate, uncivilized," say some West Germans of the restaurant in the Ruhr city of Bochum where the fancy fare features choice cuts from big cats.

"Nonsense," counters restaurant owner Berhard Schuh, who has won gold medals in West German cooking competition for his bear paw soup and turtle ragout. "People want to eat something special for their hard earned cash."

The battle over Schuh's exotic menu is raging in the letters columns of newspapers. And Schuh has asked his lawyer to obtain an apology from the assistant director of the Frankfurt Zoo, who called the serving of puma and jaguar "barbaric" and "uncivilized."

Extermination

Dr. Richard Faust, who says pumas and jaguars are being exterminated, compares serving their meat in restaurants with some of the "amusements of a degenerate society" that led to the fall of the Roman Empire.

The Frankfurt Zoo Society issued a statement saying: "We don't think it proper that to satisfy the pampered palates of affluent citizens animals are killed because they are not well enough protected in their native lands."

Schuh, who said "puma is tender and tastes something like veal, but jaguar has a somewhat wilder taste," contends the big cats are not in danger of extermination. In any case, Schuh argues that animal lovers should stick to their long-running fight with pelt dealers.

Some Importance

He said he can serve 1,000 to 1,500 portions from five jaguars and it takes five jaguars to make one fur coat. He considers the "tastes of gourmets" at least as important as women's demand for fur coats.

Schuh imports his bears, pumas and jaguars live. He refuses to divulge his sources of supply or say where they are slaughtered because he doesn't want animal protection forces to stage demonstrations.

Schuh said he has no intention of changing a menu that features jaguar roast "Montezuma" with corn on the cob and banana rice for the equivalent of $4 and puma roast "Amazon art" for $3.25.

Business has increased up to 20 per cent in his 500-seat restaurant in the few months he has been serving puma, jaguar and bear, Schuh claims.

"I have just bought 10 pumas and they are hanging in cold storage," he said.

Inmate Drowns In Septic Tank

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An inmate of the Milwaukee County House of Corrections drowned in a septic tank Sunday, officials said.

The victim, William C. Johnson, 67, was serving a six-month sentence for vagrancy.

When Johnson failed to return to his quarters Sunday morning, a search was started. His hat was spotted in the tank and it was drained, revealing the body.

Woolworths Has 'Spy' Network

NEW YORK (AP) — The oldest and largest variety store chain has a fancy for fads.

Teen-age and even adult fashions change so rapidly, F. W. Woolworth Co. says, that it has a network of "style spies" reporting daily on changes in fashions from all over the country. The chain, observing its 90th anniversary in 1969, utilizes the detection system and computerized ordering to quickly move new styles in approximately 2,000 stores in the United States, it says.

Great Lakes Missile Ship Plan Advanced

System Called Alternative to ABM Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen have been asked to consider deployment of missile-launching ships on the Great Lakes as an alternative to the anti-ballistic missile system proposed by the Nixon administration.

Ships with missiles on other bodies of water such as Utah's Great Salt Lake or Chesapeake Bay also are suggested in a paper being circulated in Washington.

The argument is that these waters afford better cover from snooping satellites, and that ships could do a better job at less cost than the controversial Safeguard AMB system.

Hasn't Been Introduced

The paper which advocates a Great Lakes Missile fleet is being circulated among Defense Department officials. It has not, not, however, been introduced into the debate over Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's proposal for limited deployment of an ABM system.

The authors of the paper have not been publicly identified, nor is it clear whether there is any organizational backing for the idea.

"These bodies of water may look miniscule compared to the Atlantic Ocean," the report notes, "but they are quite large enough to make it impractiable for the Soviet Union to toss an ICBM at every area a ship could be in."

Asked by a newsman what he thought of the idea, Rep. William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., a retired Navy captain, said he considers it "entirely practical."

Random Course

Anderson, who navigated the submarine Nautilus on its historic voyage beneath the North Pole 11 years ago, suggested the ships might cruise at high speeds on random courses. With frequent protection offered by cloud cover, darkness or camouflage, he said, they would be difficult to pinpoint by surveillance satellite.

Intrigued by the idea, Anderson agrees that it might solve the problem of maintaining a second-strike capability that Nixon and Laird seek.

The report suggests that in proposing the Safeguard system, the Nixon administration framed the ABM issue to narrowly.

The Rev. Dr. Herbert Welch, former president of Ohio Wesleyan University and a bishop of the United Methodist Church, died Friday in New York at the age of 106. He was thought to be the oldest bishop of any church in the world. This photo is from 1964. (AP Wirephoto)

Kaukauna Boy Caught Drinking at Dance

KAUKAUNA — Police apprehended a 14-year-old boy Friday night who was observed drinking an alcoholic beverage while at a teen dance.

He was taken to the police station and held for his parents who indicated they would take disciplinary action. He had mixed a small bottle of wine and gin from his home without knowledge of his parents.

Kaukauna Has Sewer Cleaning Project Underway

KAUKAUNA — In an effort to reduce complaints this spring about flooded basements, city crews have undertaken an extensive sewer cleaning program, according to Donald Schaeffer, street department foreman.

Trouble areas on the southside were cleaned last fall and work in the DSK plat was completed early this spring. Plans call for crews to follow a regular program of cleaning sewers.

Heavy deposits of debris have been found in some lines which prevents the proper flow of storm water through lines and has caused some back up in the past, according to Schaeffer.

Replacement of an 8-inch sewer line with a 15-inch line in the Augustine Street area is underway and this is expected to help solve problems in that area.

Adult Education, Photography, German Classes Are Offered

NEENAH — Registrations are being accepted for basic adult education II, conversational German and direct colour photography courses at Fox Valley Technical Institute-Neenah.

The basic education course emphasizes reading and mathematics. It will meet from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays, beginning this week in room 20. There is no charge.

The photography course will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays, beginning April 22 at the Zernicke Studio, Neenah.

He and his fellow examiners will answer questions on driving sent to Sy, in care of The Post-Crescent, Box 559, Appleton, Wis. They also welcome any suggestions or hints to improve driving or that aid the motorist.

Flashing red lights at intersections mean the same thing as a stop sign. They mean "stop completely and proceed when safe." Flashing yellow lights have the same meaning as a triangular yellow "yield" sign. They mean "slow down and proceed with caution, stop if necessary."

QUESTION: How long is a probationary license good for?

ANSWER: A probationary drivers license is issued for at least two years. At the time your probationary license is renewed, your driving record will be reviewed to determine if another probationary license or regular license will be issued.

QUESTION: Are any auto crashes unavoidable?

ANSWER: We can no longer afford to consider auto crashes an unavoidable part of driving.

A crash which cannot be traced to driver error is almost unheard of. We can, and we must, do better.

Winter's icy pavements are just about gone, but rainy weather brings much the same problem. Wet streets are slippery, so the good driver will slow down and increase his following distance.

City Will Check Sewage Flow of Combined Locks

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works has authorized Mayor Gilbert Anderson and City Clerk Karl Marzahl to make and execute an agreement with Outagamie County for the installation of a sanitary sewage measuring equipment pit on County Trunk Z near the Ryan Road intersection.

The equipment, installed on the main sanitary sewer line from Combined Locks, would permit the city to accurately measure the amount of sewage being handled in the Kaukauna plant which comes from Combined Locks. The village pays a monthly charge for sewage service.

Clay Rescinds His Plans for Boxing

CHICAGO (AP) — Former heavyweight champ Cassius Clay has been defrocked as a Black Muslim minister because he said he would like to box again to pay off his bills.

Black Muslim leader Elijah Muhammed announced over the weekend in the Muslim newspaper, Muhammed Speaks, that Clay has been suspended from the religion for one year and stripped of his Islamic name of Muhammed Ali.

Clay has retracted his statement about returning to the ring several times and told a Georgia Tech audience Friday, "I'll never climb into the ring or go into an arena again."

Small Gas Fires Found in Kimberly

KIMBERLY — Assistant fire chief John Vosters received a call concerning a small fire in an alley between Kimberly Avenue and First Street about 10 p.m. Friday and, upon investigation, he and police found a can of gasoline burning.

After extinguishing the blaze, Vosters and police found two small gasoline fires just north of a road leading to the Senior High School parking lot. No damage resulted since grass and debris in the area were wet from the rain.

Restraints Have Prevented End To Fighting of the enemy troops in the South and to prove U.S. staying power, the report said.

The admiral wrote that without the bombing, the U.S. military price of the war would have been much higher.

"The uninhibited flow of men, weapons and supplies through North Vietnam to confront our forces in South Vietnam could have had only one result for the United States and its allies—considerably heavier casualties at a smaller cost to the enemy," Sharp said.

Bombing Objective

Describing the bombing objective of "steadily increasing pressure," Sharp said North Vietnam was hurting in 1967 when Washington stopped approving new targets.

After the 1968 partial bombing halt, the admiral said, North Vietnam made extensive repairs on its roads, rails, bridges and other bomb-damaged facilities. Raids on the North were stopped last Nov. 1.

Westmoreland's account of the ground war from 1964 to 1968 is a censored version of a report he said former President Lyndon B. Johnson asked for last April.

He said allied forces were surprised by the 1968 Viet Cong Tet offensive because "it did not occur to us that the enemy would undertake suicidal attacks in the face of our power."

Turning Point

While he had some mild criticism for the holiday mood which left South Vietnam off guard when the Tet offensive was launched, Westmoreland also saw the crisis as a possible turning point.

After Tet, the general said, the South Vietnamese government was "intact and stronger; the armed forces were larger, more effective and more confident; the people had rejected the idea of a general uprising; and enemy forces ... were much weaker."

"As I left South Vietnam in June of 1968 I took with me the conviction that the enemy not only had failed to attain his objectives but that in each case they lay farther from his grasp than at any time since the dark days of 1965 when the United States intervened in strength," Westmoreland said.

Additional Troops

The report does not go into the controversy surrounding Westmoreland's alleged recommendation in February 1968 for more than 200,000 additional troops.

Westmoreland said only he had asked for additional troops as fighting raged in February and early March of last year.

"However, by the end of March, the uncertainty surrounding the Tet offensive had abated," Westmoreland said, eliminating the need for major additional U.S. forces.

Boats Ablaze on Mississippi

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A head-on collision between a Formosan freighter and an oil barge set both ablaze, sent sheets of flame soaring into a heavily traveled bridge and covered a section of the Mississippi River with burning petroleum Sunday night.

The Coast Guard said 25 of the 51 members of crew of the freighter, the 7,301-ton Union Faith, were unaccounted for. Twenty-five were taken to hospitals.

The fire-swept ship sank about six hours after the collision while being towed away for beaching.

Broke in Two

The oil barge broke in two and the two fiercely burning sections floated downstream pursued by fire tugs. One section finally sank and the other ran aground. The barge carrying 9,000 barrels of crude oil was being pushed by the tug Warren Doucet.

Firemen hosed down wharves and ships in the area to prevent the spread of the blaze.

"It looked like the river was on fire," said Elysse Landry, a crewman on a dredger working near the scene.

"Now I know what it would be like riding through hell," said Mrs. Arnold Regouffre, who was in a car with her husband when the flames swept up from the river 175 feet below.

Oriental Crew

The Union Faith, with an all-Oriental crew and carrying a cargo of salt, cotton cloth, toys, handbags, household goods and footwear, was headed upstream.

The collision occurred almost directly under the Greater New Orleans Mississippi River bridge.

"I happened to look," said Landry, "and I said 'Look, the ship is going to run into those barges. Then they collided, followed by an explosion.

"The whole front end of the ship blew up into fire and smoke and you could hardly see the ship. The pilot house was burning in three or four minutes."

Tremendous Collision

A radio operator on the freighter, Yu Fang Fan, 35, said he felt a "tremendous collision" and "I looked outside to see what happened, but there was fire and smoke all around."

Yu said he was rescued when a tugboat pulled alongside the ship after he had yelled out the porthole for help. He said at least one more crewman also climbed out through the porthole.

Harbor officials feared that wharves and other ships along the wharves would be ignited by the oil-fed fires.

Mass Grave Holds Bodies Of Tet Victims

DA NANG, South Vietnam (AP) — A second mass grave containing bodies of men and women executed by Communist troops during the 1968 Tet offensive was found near Hue today.

Workers exhumed 20 bodies and are continuing to open the grave 10 miles east of Hue during the remainder of the week.

Twelve days ago, a Vietnamese soldier on patrol had tripped across a wire that bound the hands of a buried man. As they uncovered that body, the authorities found the first mass grave and in the following days removed 134 bodies.

That area was about 12 miles southeast of Hue. The new grave site is three miles north of the first one.

"We have no idea how many bodies we will find in this new gravesite," said one U.S. advisor. He added that Vietnamese soldiers patrolling the area also are checking reports of additional grave sites.

More than 2,000 civilian residents of Hue were missing when allied troops succeeded in recapturing the old imperial capital after a month of bitter fighting.

Romanian Minister In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Romanian Foreign Minister Corneliu Manescu arrived in Moscow today for a visit during which the Kremlin is expected to put new pressure on his country's independent Communist leaders.

Official statements said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko invited Manescu for "a discussion of international problems." The visit comes at a time when the Kremlin is trying to line up support in preparation for the world Communist conference it plans to open in June in Moscow.

Communist informants say the Kremlin is annoyed at what it regards as Romania's defiant support of Red China in the Chinese-Soviet dispute, its strong opposition to the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, and the cordial relations it maintains with West Germany and Israel.

One topic Manescu and Gromyko may discuss is the Soviet-Romanian friendship pact that expired last year. Although a clause automatically extends it for another five years, the Soviets want Romania to sign another one presumably to annoy Red China.

However, the Romanians are expected to stall on the pact, at least until after the June conference in order to preserve their official policy of strict neutrality in the Moscow-Peking dispute

Oregon Man Active Again After Using This Pile Treatment

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Eugene, Oregon Mr. Chuck Gray of Eugene states: "Thanks a billion for Preparation H. Until Preparation H, I had almost run the gamut of preparations. But with Preparation H, I'm active again!"

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

King Hussein Pins Hopes for Peace On Four-Power Negotiations in N.Y.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — King Hussein, who has steered Jordan through 16 years of war and peril, is going to Washington this week to ask President Nixon to do all he can to smooth the course of the Big Four talks on the Middle East.

Hussein pins his hopes for peace on the talks that the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France opened in New York last week. The young monarch feels that continuing tension in his area can only serve Soviet purposes.

One of the most flexible and pro-Western of Arab leaders, Hussein rules an embattled land shorn of its richest province and overcrowded with embittered refugees.

Main Base

Because of the refugees, Jordan has become the main base for thousands of Palestinian guerrillas who wage hit-and-run war against neighboring Israel. This has made the country the target for repeated retaliatory raids. Its towns have been bombed and farms in the Jordan Valley devastated.

The plucky, 34-year-old king has weathered plots and assassination attempts and has narrowly averted a showdown with the Arab guerrillas. But a showdown may still be inevitable.

The king would like to see the Big Four talks work out some procedure for indirect but meaningful negotiations with Israel through the United Nations, diplomatic sources report.

He believes the United States could do more to persuade Israel to take a conciliatory line, and he will warn Nixon that time may be running out both for peace prospects and for himself.

Seeks Peace

Hussein has said repeatedly he seeks peace with Israel provided it is based on justice. But his position is too precarious for him to make a unilateral settlement, and for the same reason the concessions he can make are limited.

The guerrillas reject any solution that provides for the continued existence of Israel. They have no illusions about Hussein's desire for peace. But the king continues to rule probably because no one else—including the guerrillas—wants to take over Jordan's problems.

The guerrillas do not interfere with the king's administration provided it does not hamper their activities. They run their own bases, military police, courts of drumhead justice, medical services and youth movements. They are virtual masters in the teeming camps that accommodate nearly half a million refugees in Jordan.

The Jordanian army frequently gives the guerrillas covering fire when the Israelis chase them back across the Jordan River. Despite this degree of cooperation, a story has been going the diplomatic rounds of a secret agreement between the guerrillas and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

The rumor is that Nasser, anxious for a settlement that would give him back the Sinai Peninsula and reopen the Suez Canal, has asked the guerrillas to hold their fire until peace is concluded along the lines of the U.N. resolution of November 1967. After that, should Hussein be overthrown, the guerrillas might have both the Israeli-occupied west bank of the Jordan River and the east bank as well. Egypt would make no move to assist Hussein and would quickly recognize the government that overthrew him.

Free Speech Decision

Obscene Materials Acceptable in Privacy of Home, High Court Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a major free speech ruling, held today that it cannot constitutionally be made a crime to possess obscene films or printed matter in the privacy of a man's home.

"This right to receive information and ideas, regardless of their social worth, is fundamental to our free society," said Justice Thurgood Marshall in delivering the opinion.

But, he said in announcing the decision from the bench:

"The state has no business telling a man sitting alone in his own home what books he may read or what films he may watch.

"Stag" Film

The ruling came on an appeal by an Atlanta man, Robert Eli Stanley, who was convicted in 1967 of having three "stag" films in his home and was sentenced to one year in prison.

Said Marshall of Stanley: "He is asserting the right to read or observe what he pleases—the right to satisfy his intellectual and emotional needs in the privacy of his home. He is asserting the right to be free from state inquiry into the contents of his library."

Stanley did not argue that the films were not obscene and the court assumed for purposes of its decision that they are obscene under tests previously laid out by the court.

Marshall said: "Whatever may be the justifications for other statutes regulating obscenity, we do not think they reach into the privacy of one's own home. If the First Amendment means anything, it means that a state has no business telling a man, sitting alone in his own house, what books he may read or what films he may watch.

"Our whole constitutional heritage rebels at the thought of giving government the power to control men's minds."

The decision clearly distinguished between the Georgia law which punishes for mere possession of obscene material, and the more typical obscenity law which makes it a crime to traffic in obscene material.

Use of Mails

Marshall recalled the court has consistently permitted punishment for use of the mails or other means of dissemination to distribute objectionable material. There was nothing in today's ruling to indilate the court had changed its mind about such laws.

But, about laws like Georgia's, Marshall wrote: "The state may no more prohibit mere possession of obscenity on the ground that it may lead to antisocial conduct than it may prohibit possession of chemistry books on the ground that they may lead to the manufacture of homemade spirits."
